GAS STATIONS REVIVE 'BIG SELL'

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

A growing number of service stations are staying open longer these days, switching back to pre-embargo schedules at the request of oil companies urging them to sell more gasoline. An Associated Press spot check showed only a few cases of intense pressure being applied to dealers to stay open in the evening and on weekends. Most dealers said the oil companies simply asked them to keep selling longer.

Spokesmen for several companies said they were only asking that dealers live up to signed contracts. The Senate passed and sent to the House on Friday a bill limiting the right of petroleum distributors to cancel franchise agreements with dealers. Distributors would be allowed to cancel a contract only if the dealer failed to comply substantially with his contract or if the distributor quit the petroleum business altogether.

The AP spot check showed the situation varied from station to station, and there was no clear pattern of pressure by any particular company. The AP questioned a Gulf dealer, a Texaco dealer and a Sunoco dealer in Rhode Island, but only the Sunoco dealer, who did not want his name used, reported any pressure. "All they (the oil companies) want to do is sell more gasoline," he added.

The Gulf dealer, Pat Augiello of Providence, and the Texaco dealer, Roger Langlais of West Warwick, had a different response. "There is no pressure to sell more," Augiello said. Langlais agreed, and added: "They haven't been pushing the gasoline."

There have been recent warnings of a possible gasoline shortage this summer because of declining stockpiles and production. The Federal Energy Administration has said it was checking supply reports and, if necessary, would use its authority to increase production of gasoline since supplies of crude oil to manufacture the fuel are adequate. Major stations contacted in Chicago reported no pressure. They said their sales were off because of the price difference between the major brands and the independents.

"We sit around and play poker. The price is too high," said one station operator. A check of eight service station operators in Columbus, Ohio, showed all were being urged to sell more gasoline, but only one — an Exxon dealer — said he was being actively pressured to do more business.

Asked for an example, the dealer, who declined to be identified, said, "Pressure, that's all there is. It comes in different ways." Phil Hudson, president of the California Petroleum Retailers, said he had complaints from 11 Bakersfield, Calif., ARCO dealers who said the company threatened not to renew their leases if they don't sell 100 per cent of the gas they are allocated.

Robert Byrne, operator of a Texaco station in the Boston suburb of Dedham, said there was a difference between the oil companies' current actions and steps they took in the past. "They'd like us to be open many more hours," he said. "But it's not like the pressure of the old days. It's just conversation."

Slayer May Have Slipped Past Stakeout

Police Watching Giancana 'Welcome Home' Visitors

OAK PARK, Ill. (AP) — The slayer of Sam "Momo" Giancana may have slipped into the home Thursday night while it was being watched by law enforcement officials staking out the Chicago crime syndicate leader's home, Oak Park Deputy Police Chief Gene Scannell said today.

Investigators theorize that syndicate chieftains may have ordered the ailing Giancana silenced by a hit man, fearful that he would barter their underworld secrets for his freedom from federal prosecution.

Chicago intelligence detectives and FBI agents had his home under surveillance Thursday night to note visitors of the 68-year-old Giancana — and their auto licenses — who welcomed him home the night after he returned from a gall bladder operation in Houston. There was no immediate comment from the FBI on the surveillance operation.

And it was not known whether the agents were still outside the house when Giancana was shot late Thursday night.

Relatives and syndicate compatriots — possibly including the person who fatally shot him — were seen entering the home throughout the evening.

Giancana, onetime wheelman for Al Capone who rose to command Chicago's syndicate, took five bullets in the neck and one in the mouth as he tried an Italian snack of spinach and sausage on Thursday night.

The food hadn't even burned when Giancana's 81-year-old man-servant found him slumped on the kitchen floor. An armored door of the otherwise modest suburban home was found ajar.

Police said the assassin probably was known and trusted by the dapper Giancana, a consort of singer Phyllis McGuire and owner of gambling palaces in Havana before Fidel Castro's takeover in Cuba.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, chairman of the committee probing the Central Intelligence Agency, said he would give "no credence" to any speculation of CIA involvement in Giancana's death.

The mobster was to appear before the committee next week. Some reports said he was involved in a CIA-backed plot to kill Castro.

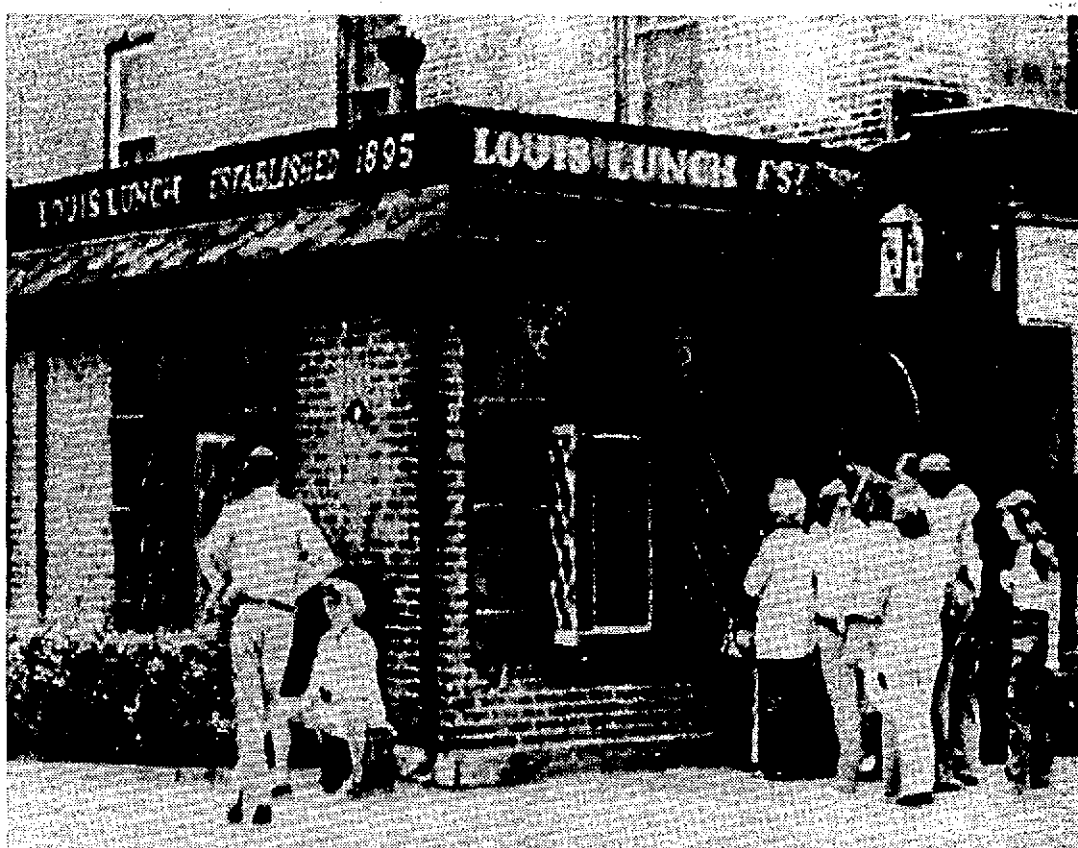

Church, noting Giancana was also set to testify before a federal grand jury in Chicago, speculated that underworld figures may have decided to be certain he would keep silent.

Some law enforcement officials agreed.

Giancana agreed in December to testify before a federal grand jury. He was granted immunity from prosecution and promised that he would not be asked questions on events before January 1972.

LOUIS' LAST STAND: Customers wait outside Louis Lunch in New Haven, Conn., Friday. The tiny restaurant, according to third-generation operator Kenneth Lassen, was where the hamburger was invented.

It is being shut down to make way for a shopping and medical complex, but Lassen hopes to reopen elsewhere. (AP Wirephoto)

HAMBURGER'S BIRTHPLACE Progress Hits U.S. Shrine

Associated Press Writer
NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Louis' Lunch, which claims to have served the first hamburger, has closed its doors to make way for a modern nine-story complex of medical offices and shops.

Kenneth Lassen, the owner, says his grandfather, Louis Lassen, invented the hamburger and served it in the 12-by-18 foot snack shop starting in 1917.

Regular customers and the curious jammed Louis' Friday for a last ground beef burger — on toast and without ketchup.

Louis', which depended on a neighboring building for its fourth wall, was popular with Yale University students and businessmen. There was room for only about 25 customers at a time and a line often formed outside on the corner of Temple and George streets.

Lassen, who has fought since 1965 to preserve Louis' at the current site or at another location he can afford, was optimistic he could save his business.

"We still have a week, and miracles have happened in a week," said Lassen, who is known for his sideorders of homey philosophy and good natured insults.

The land is owned by the city's redevelopment agency which first notified Lassen in December 1965 of its plans to develop the choice corner lot across from two department stores.

The agency gave Lassen final notice Tuesday to vacate the building, designated a New Haven landmark because of its association with the hamburger, by July 2. The city also has offered to store the small brick building for 60 days if Lassen finds a new location by Thursday.

Lassen says he plans to move out equipment and the wood benches this weekend. "Things look kind of cooked," he told a newsmen. But he added, "I think this will be saved by someone who has a piece of land."

Louis' got its start in 1895 as a Meadow Street lunch cart operated by Lassen's grandfather, a Danish immigrant. About the turn of the century, he began serving steak sandwiches.

Meat scraps from the steaks, cut up and cooked separately, were offered in a sandwich which the Lassens claim was the original hamburger.

Official Sets His Sights Too High

COTONOU, Dahomey (AP) — Dahomey's interior minister was shot dead by members of the presidential guard Friday night after he was found committing adultery with the wife of President Mathieu Kerekou, the state radio said today.

The broadcast said that Kerekou had been alerted that his wife was at the home of Capt. Michel Aikpe, the minister of interior and security. It said Kerekou went to the house with his presidential guard.

The guards broke down the door when the occupants of the house refused to open it, and that Kerekou saw for himself that his wife was there with Capt. Aikpe.

The fate of Kerekou's wife was not announced.

But the statement said that all citizens "should learn a lesson from this event. Some have not yet understood that the démands of the revolution extend to all fields, including their life and their moral attitude in society.

"In any case, the revolution is not a gala dinner. Neither is it a child's game. And those who want to play with it will learn the lesson at their expense."

Police Say Jail Wish Comes True

SOUTH HAVEN — South Haven city police Officer Graydon Eltzroth said a Bangor woman who told officers she wanted to be put in jail for her own protection got her wish early this morning.

Linda Jane Nelson, 21, North street, Bangor, was charged with malicious destruction of city property after a rock was thrown through a window of the South Haven city police station at 3:20 a.m.

Eltzroth said officers arrested Mrs. Nelson who was standing outside the police station after the incident.

"He said the woman told police she was having domestic problems and wanted to be in jail for her own protection."

She was to be arraigned in Seventh District court today.

Occult Practitioner's Body Is Dead--But Where Is His Soul?

By MARTHA HAIR
Associated Press Writer

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Friends of Robert Antoszczyk, who died recently while meditating in a unique occult exercise, say they believe his soul may have decided to leave his body behind for a better life.

Washtenaw County authorities are investigating the cause of his death, officially listed as "undetermined."

The 29-year-old yoga instructor was practicing astralprojection earlier this month, and asked friends not to disturb him. When he failed to appear after five days, his roommate investigated and found his body.

But not, friends say, his soul.

His body was declared dead on arrival at Ann Arbor's University Hospital.

Astralprojection, or "astrocontact," is an occult meditation where one projects the "soul" or mind to a different time and place, then returns it later to the body.

Antoszczyk, who friends say was in excellent health, had practiced astralprojection in the past. Some friends say there are rumors in the Ann Arbor occult crowd that his body may have been removed from his bedroom too soon — before he directed his soul to return.

Others believe Antoszczyk found a better life and his soul decided to stay.

"There's really no explanation except that he decided not to return to his body," said an astrologer friend called only Aceka.

Antoszczyk entered his bedroom June 7 to meditate. When he had not emerged by June 11, his roommate went into the room and found Antoszczyk lifeless on the bed. He called a doctor.

Antoszczyk was pronounced dead on arrival at University Hospital.

The Washtenaw County Health Department is interpreting autopsy results. An official said the investigation may take as long as two months.

Dr. Robert C. Hendricks, a University Hospital pathologist, said if Antoszczyk was meditating, his body could have slowed down so much the heart stopped. If heart slowdown caused the death, Hendricks said, it would be impossible to determine in an autopsy.

Aceka said Antoszczyk told him he was hoping to establish astrocontact with an Indian woman he had recently dreamed about.

From Antoszczyk's astrological chart, Aceka believes death came Sunday morning. He said the body had already deteriorated when Antoszczyk was taken to the hospital Wednesday.

"His horoscope was heavy with death and it predicted he would die traveling," said Aceka.

Steven Lesse, an acquaintance who owns a store which deals in occult paraphernalia, said he believes Antoszczyk projected himself into a better time and place and decided not to return to the present.

"I think he decided not to come back because he found someplace nicer," Lesse said.

Antoszczyk had been a yoga instructor at the Ann Arbor YM-YWCA for about two years, according to Associate Director Tom Huntzicker.

"He was a very nice young man, polite and competent," Huntzicker said. "The circumstances of his death make me wonder what happened."

Distrust Hampering Search For Killer

DETROIT (AP) — The traditional hostility between police and prostitutes is hampering a hunt for a man who attacks and murders streetwalkers in Detroit's Cass Corridor. As the search continues, people who live in the area, adjacent to downtown, say they are disgusted — and scared.

Lynn Wilson, 24, an area resident with an 8-month-old son, said she stays close to home now.

"When I go down to the corner to get a loaf of bread or something, I take somebody with me," Mrs. Wilson said. James Townsend, a hotel caretaker, calls the situation "a damned disgrace. But what are you going to do?"

Police said the killer is believed to have murdered three prostitutes and raped, sodomized and beaten at least seven others since May 1.

He was described by police as black, in his early 30s, over six feet tall with a mustache and a medium afro. The women he attacked said he carried a knife and had unusually large hands.

"The girls are staying off the streets unless they're young and hard up and dumb," said a woman at one bar frequented by prostitutes. "The police don't care," she said. "They just hope he'll scare us off the street. And the girls don't stick together the way they did years ago."

"If a girl goes out with somebody and he gets weird, she'll come back in the bar and not tell any of the other girls. She figures, 'I had to go through it. You can, too.' With these girls on the street, their attitude is that they're badder than he is. They're so hard, they don't feel anything," the woman said.

Police believe the killer drives around the shabby, run-down area, picking up women and threatening them with a knife. Then he drives the women to a nearby alley, where he attacks them.

Police Officer George Taylor of the homicide division said the anger between cops and prostitutes has slowed the investigation considerably.

"The girls can't believe that the police department would be out there trying to help these people," he said. "And they don't cooperate with each other. These people are going to have to cooperate," Taylor said.

Homicide Chief Inspector John Loch said Friday the police have "two good suspects," but neither has been apprehended.

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

Governor Wallace's Unique Charisma

For a man who likely would lose any Mr. America contest he might enter, George C. Wallace had developed a formula to counteract that purely personal deficit which keeps his opposition in a turmoil.

He has dusted off a simple truism which so many in the business world overlook to their sorrow. It can be extremely damaging to ignore what the competition is doing. It is absolutely fatal to spend all of one's time watching what the other fellow is doing. The latter is what Ben Franklin, the first American to coin parables for the businessman, had in mind when he wrote, "Keep thy shop and they shop will keep thee."

The Alabama governor is not the first, nor the only politician to display a skill in keeping other politicians guessing. He merely does it better.

Last week he delivered the keynote address to the National Federation of Independent Businessmen's annual convention in Washington.

The speech sent waves through the convention. It drew a press coverage comparable to what a President automatically commands by virtue of his office, what Teddy Kennedy can evoke just by changing barbers, or what his sister-in-law, Jackie Bouvier Kennedy Onassis, draws by going on a shopping spree.

Wallace underscored two points.

"I am going to be involved in 1976."

Second, the middle class is in revolt against two enemies: "an elitist intelligentsia" controlling the federal bureaucracy and the big city communications media; and those living off other people's money and refusing to work.

His first comment has the Republican and Democratic leadership turning to swamis to discern what Wallace means by being involved.

The latest public opinion polls show that next to Kennedy he enjoys the rank and file preference for Presidential nomination on the Democratic ticket. Companion surveys, indicate Wallace's overall appeal, without confinement to party lines, is not expanding and perhaps may be shrinking somewhat. Still other polls hint strongly that a third party could emerge to the extinction of one or even both traditional rivals.

There is a fourth survey, equally current and more emphatic than the first three; namely, most Americans feel their government and a host of private institutions are not telling it like it is.

Professionals in the two major parties react divergently to Wallace.

The dominant opinion, that expressed in Democratic circles, is the theme of stop Wallace at any cost.

The other cutting across fences is the worry over Wallace through a third party movement obsoleting all of today's leadership.

Most neatly, Wallace is accomplishing what our businessman's constant surveillance of his competitor down the street is guaranteed to bring about.

While his record as the champion of the little guy is not supported by the facts shown in his administering Alabama's affairs, Wallace is convincing the little guy that people over and under him are squeezing him to death.

The public opinion polls are not taken yet squarely on this point. They do, though, approach it from different directions. When read together they amount to the mathematician's boxing in an equation having a great number of unknown variables.

This middle class sense of being pushed aside runs deep today.

Sufficiently so, in our judgment, that only a companion doubt if Wallace is really hefty enough in his own right keeps the Alabama governor from being handicapped as the probable winner next year.

Wallace is not the only person qualified to interpret statistics.

Opposing politicians have to possess the same insight or pass on to oblivion.

So far, however, none of them has chosen to switch on the light under the crystal ball.

The Congress Politics While The Voters Burn

The supposedly "veto-proof" 94th Congress apparently thinks it is voter-proof, too. That at any rate is the impression one gets from remarks made by House majority leader Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill the other day.

"The flowers that bloom in the spring wither in the fall," chirruped the Massachusetts Democrat. Commenting on President Ford's complaints about congressional dilly-dallying on energy and other matters, he promised that "beginning about next September, we'll take off on him. The economic woes of the nation are

Editor,

Having had the privilege of the services of both the American Cancer Society, located at 1501 Niles avenue, St. Joseph, and also the Berrien County Cancer Service, 2921 Leco court, St. Joseph, I was pleased to see the picture with the article about Mary-Martha Guild donating $300 to Berrien County Cancer Services for a wheel chair and other items. The money, it stated, was raised by selling a small kitchen item. Each of these cancer organizations are separately funded and maintained. Each have separate functions that do not overlap.

Transportation is one of the major functions of American Cancer Society and visiting nurses and bandages and medicine are a large part of Berrien County Cancer Services. The money needed to keep these two most important and helpful organizations services available are raised separately and entirely different and independent of each other.

I heard one of our local announcers on Sound-Off a couple of weeks ago talking to a party over the phone and one of these cancer organization's names came up and the lady corrected him on which cancer organization it was and he replied "Oh, it's the same difference." Not true, my uninformed friend. They are funded separately and differently and each perform a distinct and separate job. I personally owe so much gratitude to both of them, I could write a book. I honestly believe they are the greatest and most deserving of any I have heard of or have had personal contact with.

ATTACKS STORY'S VOTING RECORD

Editor,

At the last meeting of the Hartford City Council Mr. Gene Story was challenged to explain why his record since taking office showed that he had consistently voted on the matter of the salary ordinance setting the salaries of City Clerk, City Treasurer and City Assessor. Story stated that since it was a blanket ordinance, he did not feel it was necessary for him to abstain. Mrs. Story is the City Clerk.

Mr. Story was then asked why he voted on other measures involving expenses for the City Clerk and for himself. Story stated that he had not done so, then qualified that statement by saying that if he had done so it had been "inadvertent." Let's set the record straight.

On Jan. 10, 1972, ordinance No. 89 was introduced setting the salaries of Clerk, Treasurer and Assessor. Gene Story, newly seated councilman, voted "yea". On the resolution to adopt the above ordinance, Story abstained. Jewell Story was the City Clerk.

In Jan. of 1973, ordinance No. 91 setting the salaries of the same three elected officials was introduced. Story voted "yea". On April 9, 1973, the ordinance was adopted with Story voting "yea". His wife was still the City Clerk.

In 1974 and 1975 Story again voted "yea" to both the introduction and passage of the annual ordinance setting forth these salaries. His wife was again the City Clerk of record. Now let me cite you some of the rules under which the City Council is supposed to be working.

"Section 4.3 No member of the Council shall vote on any question in which he had a financial interest, other than the common public interest, or on any question concerning his own conduct or his own appointment, but on all other questions each member who is present shall vote when his name is called, unless excused by the unanimous consent of the remaining members present."

"Section 5.13 No member of the City Council, or other officer, shall be interested directly or indirectly in the profits of any contract, job, or work to be entered into or done for or on behalf of the City, or be

Top Man Bears Responsibility

WASHINGTON — The drive on white collar crime has taken a massive, if shaky, step forward.

Under an expanded definition developed by the courts, a company president, for example, can be found personally guilty of a crime resulting from negligence by subordinates.

— Even if he can prove he had no criminal intent. ("The statute ... dispenses with 'consciousness of wrongdoing.'")

— Even if he had ordered corrective action, but did not make certain action was taken. ("It was enough ... that, by virtue of the relationship he bore to the corporation, the agent had the power to have prevented the act complained of.")

— Even if he had a system for checking on employees. In his summation to the jury, one prosecutor successfully argued that the president of the company involved had to be held responsible for the fact that his system wasn't working.

That is, responsible company officials may be liable for prosecution and conviction even if they did not know anything was amiss. ("The liability of managerial officers ... (does) not depend on their knowledge of, or personal participation in, the act made criminal by the statute.")

These points became clear in a recent Supreme Court decision and a reaffirmation of a 32-year-old decision.

Thus far, the propositions noted above appear to be fully applicable only to instances of neglect where the public interest is seriously involved — primarily where the sanitary condition of food and its purity are the issue.

But note that at a time courts are reducing the authority of company officials over employees, they are increasing the responsibility of company officials for the negligence of subordinates.

The Supreme Court seems to recognize this when it says: "The requirements of foresight and vigilance imposed on responsible corporate agents are beyond question demanding, and perhaps onerous, but they are no more stringent than the public has a right to expect of those who voluntarily assume positions of authority in business enterprises whose services and products affect the health and well-being of the public ..."

It must be noted here that we are talking about the personal criminal liability of a company president or other high company official — not the liability of a company. It has long been established that company negligence subjects a firm to penalties.

In the immediate case at hand, the company had already acknowledged guilt, or rather negligence — unsanitary conditions, including rat droppings, in a major warehouse in which food for sale was stored. The punishment given the company president was light, a fine of $50 on each of five counts for a total of $250.

But he could have been given a year's imprisonment and fined up to $1,000 on each count for this first offense. A second offense of negligence would be a felony and could subject the defendant to three years in prison, $10,000 fine and deprivation of important civil rights.

This interpretation of law is a forceful return to personal responsibility. It says in essence that no company president or high official can pass the buck downward or hide behind his company.

Hardliners Worry Conservatives

One shrewd observer thinks that American conservative politicians are being damaged by what we might call the "LeMay Problem," and that this is frustrating the conservative revival that on all other counts ought to be sweeping the country.

In 1968, you will recall, George Wallace made the incredible political blunder of choosing former Air Force General Curtis LeMay as his Vice Presidential running mate. General LeMay, who had spent his life in the arcane world of big bombers, massive strikes, and megaton nuclear bombs, began to talk with hair-raising casualness about such things. It didn't make much difference, he said, whether you were killed with a pen knife or a hydrogen bomb. Radioactivity was overrated. The atomic test area at Eniwetok was practically back to normal, except for a few "hot" land crabs.

With the baleful appearance of LeMay, Wallace's campaign lost much of its momentum. The Wallace voters were against busing, pointy-head, and hippies — but what about this general who had come in from out of the cold brandishing hydrogen bombs?

Earlier, in 1964, Barry Goldwater suffered in a similar way. It made people nervous when he talked about "lobbing one into the Kremlin men's room."

David B. Wilson, the house conservative for the McGovern-Boston Globe, thinks that current conservative political leaders continue to have a "LeMay problem." Wilson's point is well worth attention.

Just on the face of things, he argues, the American Right would seem to have a great deal going for it.

People are fed up with a good many bloated Federal programs and they are thoroughly skeptical of the Federal government's ability to "solve problems." In the cities, to recall, an old phrase, the Federal government is more of ten part of the problem rather than part of the solution. Long-held conservative positions now accord with a general perception: high taxes and inflation are cruelly squeezing the middle class wage earner.

As recent statistics make clear, the ability of middle class parents to send their children to college is actually declining. Federal bureaucrats' special solicitude for favored minorities is widely resented. A vast gap exists between the values and ideals of the majority and the familiar attitudes of the liberals.

"In these circumstances," writes David Wilson, "one might expect a conservative revival to be sweeping the country. But no such phenomenon is apparent. And the leadership of the Right seems reluctant to recognize the reason for its failure to exploit the situation.

"Is that the American Right seems compulsively attached to the imperial view of this country's role in the world. ... And it scares people.

"In domestic dialogue, the conservative arguments are winning. But the very people who would otherwise be susceptible to these arguments are frightened out of the fold by what they interpret as sabre-rattling.

On military matters, conservatives might consider espousing a global strategy resting on air and naval power, a la the late Gen. Billy Mitchell, and deliberately down-playing the "expeditionary force" possibility.

It is perfectly true that a Communist conquest of South Korea would have disastrous effects in Japan. The facts of life in the real world, unfortunately, do not permit a total preoccupation with ice cream cones and pizza.

But the international facts of life have little appeal for the American electorate, not this year at any rate. They don't play in Peoria.

Michigan Legal History Made In Berrien

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

The Berrien county prosecutor's office Friday made legal history in Michigan when it got the first conviction in the state under Michigan's new franchise investment act. An Ohio-based firm pleaded guilty in Berrien circuit court to placing an advertisement in the Niles Daily Star without first filing a copy of the advertisement with the Michigan Department of Commerce — one of the requirements of the new act.

It took slightly under two months from the time of the arrest by investigators from the Berrien Consumer Protection Unit until yesterday's conviction when Firestone Photographs, Inc., of Columbus, pleaded guilty before Judge William S. White. The prosecutor's office indicated the state attorney general's office does not even expect to make an arrest under the new law until next week.

Pleading guilty to the charge on behalf of Firestone Photographs was Albert O'Ryan, executive vice president of the firm. Since it was the company which technically pleaded guilty, the stiffest penalty is a fine of $10,000. A person convicted under the law, which went into effect Jan. 15, faces a maximum sentence of up to seven years in prison. The advertisement was placed in the Niles newspaper on April 9, and Consumer Protection Unit investigators and Niles police made the arrest on April 24. Firestone Photographs allegedly offered to set up a system for distribution of pre-paid photograph mailers for an initial investment of $5,000, according to Randy Arnt, CPU investigator.

Arnt said any company which offers franchises in Michigan must file copies of advertisements with the state commerce department, and the act is intended to give consumers purchasing information before they purchase a franchise.

valued at $100, from the residence of Flora Wofford, 785 Columbus avenue.

—Tools, valued at $109, from the residence of Jimmie Cousain, 200 East Britain avenue. She reported the theft at 7:32 p.m.

Other thefts reported to Benton Harbor police:

—A portable sewing machine, valued at $100, from the residence of Flora Wofford, 785 Columbus avenue.

—Tools, valued at $109, from the residence of Jimmie Cousain, 200 East Britain avenue.

—An 8-track tape player, valued at $120, from the Model Cities neighborhood center, 809 Territorial road.

State police from the Benton Harbor post Friday night arrested James Marmon, 58, Allegan, who was booked on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon.

Troopers said a loaded pistol was found on the floorboard of an auto, stopped for speed on eastbound I-94, near Nickerson avenue, Sodus township.

Man Pleads Guilty To Gun Charge

A Benton Harbor man, originally accused of carrying a concealed weapon, pleaded guilty to a lesser charge before Berrien Circuit Judge Julian E. Hughes.

Pleading guilty to attempted carrying a concealed weapon was Louis Round Davis, 35, of 634 McGulgan. He was continued free on bond to await a maximum sentence of up to 2½ years in prison.

Davis was accused of attempting to carry a .22 caliber pistol on Highland avenue in Benton township, on March 16.

Petitions Opposing I-94 Penetrator To Be Circulated

Concrete Opposition Unlimited will circulate two petitions opposing construction of the I-94 penetrator to St. Joseph, officials said today.

One of the petitions will be for signatures of St. Joseph city residents and will be sent to the St. Joseph city commission to "strongly urge" an election be held to let voters advise the commission on penetrator preference, Mrs. Kay Jiral, secretary-treasurer, said.

The other petition, for St. Joseph township residents, will be addressed to the Michigan Department of State Highways and Transportation and the St. Joseph township board. It will oppose the penetrator and advise upgrading Niles road, (US-33), Mrs. Jiral reported.

Greg Johnson is president of Concrete Opposition, an ad hoc off-shoot of United For Survival.

The petition to the St. Joseph city commission is designed to erase the backing of the city for the penetrator. State highway officials have repeatedly cited the fact the city has gone on record favoring the penetrator.

While the St. Joseph city commission has not taken any action recently regarding the penetrator, the St. Joseph Planning commission voted to reaffirm its support of the river route portion of the proposed highway. The river route, however, is a segment of the future development of the penetrator plan.

The penetrator project calls for building a limited access, four-lane divided highway from I-94 midway between Lincoln and Washington to a point near the junction of Niles, Washington and Hilltop roads.

The wording on the petition to be circulated in the city is as follows: "The undersigned, voters, taxpayers and residents of the City of St. Joseph, strongly urge that you arrange a special election within the next 30 days. The purpose would be to permit the voters to advise you of their opposition to the proposed $6,000,000 I-94 penetrator, so that you may act in the interest of ALL of the citizens and NOT in response to the wishes of the state highway department or a few local special interests."

The petition to the highway department and the St. Joseph township board is as follows:

"We, the undersigned residents and/or taxpayers of St. Joseph township, wish to register our opposition to the proposed Interstate 94 penetrator in St. Joseph township for the following reasons: 1—It is a waste of an estimated $6,000,000 of the taxpayers' money and will cause problems and congestion at Hilltop road and Washington avenue, rather than relieve them. 2—It will destroy the only natural green belt in the area and depreciate adjoining residential properties. 3—It will further divide the township making police and fire protection either less efficient or more costly. 4—Existing Niles avenue can readily be upgraded to better accommodate traffic when and if such a need exists, without significantly destroying property values and a natural scenic area."

Petitions will be circulated by members of Concrete Opposition unlimited and will be at the Maud Preston Palenske Memorial library, Mrs. Jiral reported.

Concrete Opposition Unlimited made plans to circulate the petitions at a meeting Thursday in the library. At the session, attended by 50 persons, a letter written by Sam F. Cryderman, deputy director, bureau of transportation planning, of the highway department, was read.

Cryderman had written: "There is a need in St. Joseph and Benton Harbor for an improved I-94 business loop of which the current project is the southern leg."

A movie showing the penetrator route was shown by Mrs. Joseph Hartwig.

Sally Mutz, a St. Joseph township trustee, reviewed the township fight against the penetrator.

Mrs. Jiral reported the Enviro-Pact study for various possible penetrator routes into the city was tentatively scheduled to be released June 10, has been delayed until July. She said a public hearing will follow in 30 days.

Some Charges Are Dismissed

Berrien Prosecutor John Smietanka reported yesterday that two counts of embezzlement over $100 were dismissed against James A. Borcham, 36, former president of Beaudoin-Stueland Electric Company, Inc.

According to Smietanka, the charges were dropped at the request of Special Prosecutor Harold S. Sawyer, Kent county. He said Borcham still has pending against him three counts of conspiracy to obtain money under false pretenses from Beaudoin-Stueland, St. Joseph.

The embezzlement charges were dropped in favor of prosecuting on the conspiracy charges, according to Smietanka.

The same three conspiracy charges are also pending against St. Joseph Atty. Thomas McCoy and retired state police lieutenant William Lanphear, Sault Ste. Marie. The charges allege the trio obtained a total of $24,372 from Beaudoin-Stueland.

The embezzlement charges alleged Borcham embezzled $777 on March 5, 1975, and $1,364 on Sept. 19, 1974. He resigned as president of the company on April 1 of this year.

Sawyer was appointed special prosecutor in the conspiracy case by Smietanka because McCoy was a former Berrien special assistant prosecutor.

Fire At Stevensville Levels Big Garage

Fire yesterday afternoon leveled a large garage and storage addition at the Robert Krumroy residence, 5162 Puetz road, Stevensville.

Rudy Bohn, assistant chief, Tri-unit fire department, unit 1, said the 28 by 32 foot structure and 12 by 32 foot attached addition were completely engulfed in flames when firemen arrived at the scene shortly before 1 p.m.

The building and its contents were destroyed, according to Bohn. Destroyed in the blaze was a dune buggy, $4,000 worth of tools, a garden tractor, and various other items, according to Krumroy. Mrs. Krumroy said the building and equipment were partially insured.

Bohn said heat from the fire was so intense that some windows in the Krumroy residence, some 125 feet from the garage, cracked. Bohn said firemen watered down the home.

Bohn said Mrs. Bohn was talking on the phone when her two sons playing at a neighbor's home noticed the fire.

Cause of the blaze remains under investigation, according to Bohn.

Moral Issues Trigger Turn To Religion

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Another Watergate figure has turned to specifically Christian work. It's a familiar symptom. The moral issues raised in the case have triggered turns to religion among several of those involved.

In fact, it was the impact of church services that purportedly sparked the initial break in the case.

It has caused a lot of reassessments of motives and values among the participants, says former White House aide Jeb Stuart Magruder, who this week took a job in a nationwide Christian youth program.

"I'm sure many of them are reviewing their goals," he said in an interview.

Some of them have asserted new Christian commitments, including former White House plumber Egil "Bud" Krogh and one-time White House adviser Charles W. "Chuck" Colson, both of whom served prison time for Watergate involvements.

John Ehrlichman, chief domestic adviser to resigned President Nixon and also convicted in the Watergate coverup, says he now wants to work for "the well-being of others."

Watergate break-in expert James McCord, who served four months in prison, said it was a sermon series in suburban Washington's Fourth Presbyterian Church by its pastor, the Rev. Richard Halverson, that led him to write the 1973 letter to Federal Judge John Sirica that first blew the lid on the case.

The religious effects in the case are chronicled in a new book being issued by Tyndale House, "Washington: Christians in the Corridors of Power," by James C. Hefley and Edward E. Plowman.

Magruder, who spent seven months in prison for his part in the affair, is becoming a vice president of Young Life, an organization working among unchurched teen-agers to bring them to Christian convictions and standards.

"It does a tremendously effective job in helping young people find a lifestyle as an alternative to the destructive patterns available today," he said. "It's a mission I feel is important."

Magruder, 40, a United Presbyterian, said he and his family always have been active in church, but that as a result of Watergate, his dedication to Christianity "is stronger."

Anyone who has been through a "crisis stage" such as Watergate inevitably reassesses his philosophy and objectives, he said, adding that in his own case, it was not simply Watergate and prison but his whole life experience.

Watergate was "just the last thing" in the process that brought the changed goals, he said.

"The typical success orientation is to get to the top of the business or political ladder," he said, adding that he now is "more interested in relating to people and contributing to their welfare."

Young Life, the organization he will serve as vice president in fields of administration and communication, has headquarters in Colorado Springs, Colo. It is non-denominational and runs about 1,000 weekly youth clubs meeting weekly in 300 cities.

Headed by William S. Starr, the organization has a staff of about 480 professionally trained field workers who act on a person-to-person basis in getting acquainted with teen-agers and getting them involved in Christian group activities.

It's not "hard sell," Starr says. "We are helping the young to discover themselves without being pushed."

Magruder, asked if the sins of Watergate helped qualify a man for Christian service, said:

"The basic view of Christianity is that every man is a sinner. But prison wasn't a seminary. It was a lot of things, but not a seminary." Yet the pangs of it, he added, have stirred a zeal for reform, there and elsewhere.

THE BIBLE

No. 192. Ezra Is Appointed Spiritual Leader

Because Ezra was a religious leader, he was well versed in the laws Moses had given to the people of Israel. Naturally, he asked to be permitted to leave Babylon and return to Jerusalem in order to teach the Biblical laws to the people there. King Artaxerxes gave Ezra a letter appointing him the spiritual leader in Jerusalem:

"I make a decree, that all they of the people of Israel, and of his priests and Levites, in my realm, which are minded of their own free will to go up to Jerusalem, go with thee. . . . And I, even I, Artaxerxes the king, do make a decree to all the treasurers which are beyond the river, that whatsoever Ezra the priest, the scribe of the law of the God of heaven, shall require of you, it be done speedily." (Ezra 7:13,21)

Thus Ezra and all manner of people of Israel—singers, gatekeepers, priests, Levites, and Temple workers—departed for Jerusalem in the seventh year of the reign of King Artaxerxes.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

How To Make Job Easier

Dear Ann Landers: May I add a word of advice for both mothers and sitters — on behalf of the child?

It can be very traumatic for a youngster to be left with a total stranger on a moment's notice. The sitter should be invited to the house as a guest to say hello a day or so before she takes on her first job with a new child.

It can be a terrifying experience for a little one to be left with a person he or she has never seen before. The sitter must then calm the child and reassure him, and this can be a difficult job.

So please, Ann, add this suggestion to your list of "helpful hints" for both mothers and sitters. — It Happened To Me

Dear Happ: Excellent suggestion. Thank you for writing. Your letter is a good example of how an ounce of prevention can be much better than a pound of cure.

Lingering Love

Dear Ann Landers: I am in love with a man who is 27. We became engaged a short time after we dated — two and a half months, to be exact. We both felt we were just right for each other, so why wait? We announced our engagement last week and arrangements are being made for our wedding.

There's a problem that keeps me up nights. My fiancé cannot seem to get over his former girl friend. They talk on the phone and see each other occasionally. I believe he is still in love with her. He refuses to discuss it, but I know something is there. I'm afraid I caught him on the rebound and he is too much of a gentleman to back out. How do I find out if I'm right or wrong? He's not a very good talker and I'm not a very good listener. This is a cry for help, Ann. — Three's A Crowd

Dear C: You are obviously beset with doubts, which is no way to go into a marriage. Cancel the wedding plans at once and give your fiancé his freedom. If he really loves you and not the old flame you'll know it within a few months. It's easier my dear, to reinstate plans for a wedding than to go through a divorce.

Wrong Number

Dear Ann Landers: You

sometimes print pet gripes which can be very useful because people learn from them. Here's mine: The Wrong Number.

I often wonder who these people are who make phone calls at 3:00 a.m. Either they are insomniacs or folks who work nights and sleep during the day.

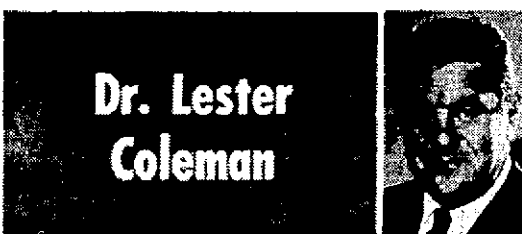

It so happens that my husband and I work days and we need our sleep at night. This past month we have been awakened three times between 3:00 and 4:00 a.m. by some jerk looking for "Alice." Once that phone jangles us out of a sound sleep the night is shot. It also means feeling lousy the next day. It just isn't fair.

Please, Ann, ask your readers to dial with care — especially after midnight. It's the very least one can do for his fellow man. Thank you. — Red-Eyed This Morning

Dear Red: Here's your letter and I hope it helps. Unfortunately, at least half of those wrong numbers (especially the jerks who are looking for "Alice") can't see the dial for the booze — so please don't expect me to produce miracles.

A no-nonsense approach to how to deal with life's most difficult and most rewarding arrangement. Ann Landers's booklet, "Marriage — What to Expect," will prepare you for better or for worse. Send your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120, enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dr. Lester Coleman

An exciting new approach to the control of cancer is being tried at Stanford University in California. Tiny atomic particles, called "pions," when shot at tumor cells kill them.

The pions enter the cancer cells and produce a tiny explosion which disintegrates the cancer cells and prevents their recurrence.

Dr. Malcolm Bagshaw and his colleagues state that pion therapy should be available to humans in three to five years. It is expected to be three times as effective in killing tumor cells as X-ray treatments now in use. The experimental studies are confined to animals but hold great promise.

quality of living.

DR. COLEMAN welcomes letters from readers, and, while he cannot undertake to answer each one, he will use question in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Coleman in care of this newspaper.

Lawrence Meetings

A — Your partner must be showing the ace of spades and suggesting a diamond slam. Just bid six diamonds.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding one notrump your partner has raised you from one heart to two hearts. What do you do now?

Answer Monday

By Oswald & James Jacoby

North and South have nine of the easiest tricks possible at notrump, but most pairs would land at four spades with or without West's club overall.

There are the nine tricks available at spades, but 10 are necessary.

The easiest place to find that 10th trick is in hearts. Just let the suit break 3-3 and South's fourth heart will become a winner.

South can do a trifle better than that. He can guard against a 4-2 heart break provided the man with the four hearts also holds three or four spades.

This should be enough of a hint to you to find the winning line of play. If you haven't found it, here it is.

South takes the first club, plays one round of trumps, leads a heart and ducks in both hands. He can't afford two rounds of trumps — some mean opponent might lead a third. And he can't afford to play out the high hearts first — someone might get to overruff dummy.

After this start the contract wheels in. South gets in with a diamond, plays one more trump, continues with the ace of diamonds and then the king of hearts.

Now South has nine tricks.

What do you do now?

Young Praises Ford, But Levels Blast At Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Detroit's Democratic mayor, Coleman Young, warmly praised President Ford Friday while criticizing the Democratic-controlled Congress over efforts to alleviate the city's financial plight.

The White House has given him "repeated signs of interest, of cooperation and of hope" concerning a plan to revitalize Detroit economically, Young said.

"Yet the Congress, controlled by members of my own party, by Democrats who have been supportive of changes in national priorities, is not moving in any meaningful direction I can see," he said.

Appearing before the Joint Economic Committee, Young said he believes in different solutions to resolve the city's financial crisis than the Ford administration. Nevertheless, he said, "within the limits of their philosophy, the leaders of this administration are actually doing something that might mean a difference for the people of Detroit."

Detroit Graduation Party Ends In Arrest Of 25

EAST DETROIT, Mich. (AP) — At least 25 youths were arrested Friday night when a graduation party for East Detroit high school seniors was crashed by thousands of raucous outsiders who pelted police with beer bottles. At least three officers suffered minor injuries. Police from five communities threw tear gas at the milling youths, estimated at 5,000 strong, and sprayed many with mace after they spat on the officers, observers said. Estimates of arrests ranged as high as 40 but East Detroit police said early today they had no idea exactly how many persons were detained because they were jailed in several communities.

An East Detroit police spokesman said 90 per cent of those arrested would face disorderly conduct charges, but some could face more serious charges. Observers said there was some use of drugs. "I don't know what the actual (arrest) count is," the police spokesman said. "I imagine some will be charged with a serious crime but I don't know what it is. We haven't gotten that far along yet."

The party, held with city council approval to avoid a series of smaller gatherings which have disrupted the area in recent years, actually began Wednesday night with about 2,500 youths in attendance. About 3,500 gathered Thursday. The party was to have been limited to East Detroit high school graduates and one friend.

Police Recover $1 Million

BAIE COMEAU, Quebec (AP) — Police say they have recovered two sacks containing more than $1 million stolen from a branch of the Canadian National Bank in Quebec's largest bank holdup.

Tracking dogs led police to the loot hidden in a wooded area about 15 miles from a bank branch which was robbed Thursday, police said.

A police spokesman said investigators believed the bandits escaped in a helicopter or plane.

The bank branch was located at a hydroelectric dam site 50 miles north of here and about 250 miles north of Quebec City.

U.S. Might Use N-Weapons In Korea--Schlesinger

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger, in a new warning to North Korea, says use of tactical nuclear weapons "would be carefully considered" in event of a new invasion of South Korea.

Schlesinger underscored his warning by acknowledging publicly that the United States has tactical nuclear weapons deployed in South Korea.

"If circumstances were to require the use of tactical nuclear weapons... I think that that would be carefully considered," Schlesinger said at a news conference Friday.

He noted at the same time that "the ground forces balance in the Korean peninsula is not unsatisfactory," indicating he believes a North Korean attack could be repelled by conventional weapons.

Schlesinger's warning to North Korea accompanied his disclosure that the Russians have started deploying three powerful new types of intercontinental ballistic missiles, and that two of them carry multiple warheads which can be aimed at separate targets.

The defense secretary also said recent long-range Soviet missile tests into the Pacific indicate the Russians are improving the accuracy of their ICBMs, a key technology in which the Russians are believed to have trailed the U.S.

Pentagon officials are concerned the Russians may be in position by the early 1980s to threaten a first-strike surprise knockout of U.S. missiles if the Soviets deploy large numbers of big new missiles armed with thousands of accurate and powerful nuclear warheads.

Referring to Soviet progress in the past six months, Schlesinger said the Russians have deployed 50 SS19 missiles which have been tested with six warheads apiece, ten SS17 missiles which carry four warheads and ten SS18 missiles with single warheads.

The SS18 is Russia's largest ICBM, dwarfing the U.S. Minuteman missile. Schlesinger said the recent Soviet Pacific tests involved at least seven warheads on a single SS18 missile.

"We must anticipate that the SS18 may indeed be successfully deployed in the field on the basis of the tests to date," Schlesinger told newsmen. Intelligence experts have predicted combat readiness for the SS18 by late this year.

Schlesinger's new warning to North Korea comes against the background of U.S. concern that the Communist government in Pyongyang might be tempted to test U.S. readiness to help defend South Korea in the wake of American failure in South Vietnam and Cambodia.

"I do not think it would be wise to test (American) reactions," Schlesinger said in words obviously aimed at North Korean leaders.

Under questioning, Schlesinger said the United States would have to consider sending additional ground troops into South Korea if North Korea attacked and the South Korean army and the one U.S. Army division there found themselves hard-pressed.

Turned Down

WASHINGTON (AP) — G. Gordon Liddy, the silent leader of the Watergate burglary crew, has lost an effort to have his prison term shortened and $40,000 fine reduced.

U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica rejected Liddy's request Friday saying the 45-year-old lawyer "has not given the court even a hint of contrition or sorrow."

Twenty-Nine Projects

Interior Remodeling Tops SJ List

Twenty-nine remodeling and repair projects ranging from $80 to $4,936 have been approved the past month by Carl L. Conklin, director of building

TRADITIONAL APPEARANCE: This house is a departure from the features of houses erected 200 years ago, without sacrificing the character of Early American domestic architecture. Notable are the wide roof overhangs which add to length and reduce maintenance cost due to the protection of the side walls from the weather. Incorporated are a linen chute, mud closet, package receiver, family room bookshelves, pantry, broom closet, generous foyer, large closets, cross-ventilation, separate dining room, bay windows, kitchen eating space. The first floor of Plan HA800Y has 904 square feet, the family room 315 square feet and the second floor 945 square feet. Architect Herman York, 90-04 161st street, Jamaica, N.Y. 11432 will answer questions about the cost of the blueprint that are accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Victor Beveridge, 1401 Niles avenue, took out a permit to repair roof on garage and panel entry at an estimated cost of $200.

Hartley Nickel, 1801 Lakeview avenue, took out a permit to remodel basement at an estimated cost of $1,200.

Backyard Pool

Needs Thought

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

A backyard swimming pool is a place for swimming, but in most cases it is more than that. It is people and surroundings. Together, they make the pool an excellent spot for gatherings of family and friends.

To make it appear more than just a hole in the ground with water in it, a pool must have a setting, just as the attractiveness of a house depends to a considerable degree on its landscaping.

In planning a pool installation, there are several questions that must be answered. What kind of deck will best serve the area? What kind of landscaping will be needed as a windbreak and for decorative purposes? Should other fixtures be added, such as a dressing house or a sauna? Will the patio area be separate from the pool or attached to it?

The decking is a prime consideration, since nothing gives a "finished" look to a pool more than an attractive deck.

Whatever material is selected, it must have nonskid qualities when wet.

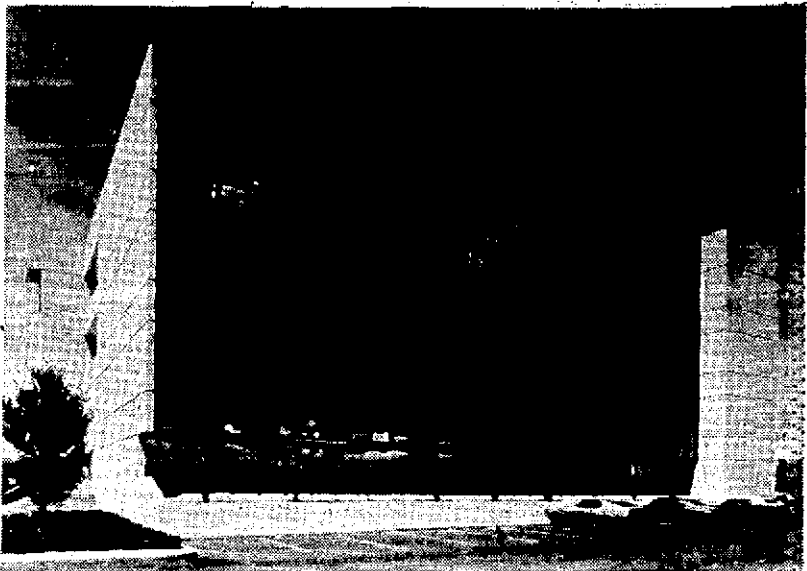

Checkpoints to consider are the type of material and design used in the main house, the contour of the site, the landscaping already present or planned, the degree of entertaining intended, the distance from the house to the pool and the over-all aesthetic look desired.

The material used for coping around the pool depends, to some extent, on the construction of the pool, since the coping ties in to the decking. Some possibilities are wood, bricks, flagstones, cast stone and poured concrete.

Packaged vinyl liner pools come with a specially designed coping (Cas-Lock) that firmly secures the liner to the structural walls and is compatible with any type of desired decking.

The aim is to coordinate the pool with the deck, which in turn is coordinated with the house.

The redwood deck, for example, might be used to blend with a home that uses the same material. Or the redwood decking might be combined with flagstone for a patio area.

SUN-STOPPER: Attractively mirroring passing clouds, this expansive glass wall of 911 Big Beaver road office building in Troy, Mich., also reflects sun's heat to reduce energy needs for air conditioning. Its east and west walls are sheathed with single-glazed Solarcool Bronze reflective glass by PPG Industries for energy savings plus modern appearance. According to architects Rosson-Newman Associates of Detroit, "building occupants like large windows, and high performance glass makes using large vision areas possible."

Repairing Damaged Home

Leads Benton Construction

Building permits totalling $24,730, were issued this week in Benton township by Chester Shuck, chief of buildings and inspection.

Those issued permits include:

- General Building Maintenance, Benton Harbor, to repair a dwelling damaged by an automobile accident at 951 Waukonda which is owned by Willie Mulheron, $3,500.
- John Rowady, 2148 Ogden, to install a new swimming pool for himself at that address, $3,200.
- Nowlen Lumber Co., Benton Harbor, to erect a chain link fence around the Fatsco company, 257 North Fair, $2,700.
- Hasse Standard gas station, 1151 Pipestone, to install a chain link fence for themselves at that address, $2,700.
- Holiday Inn, 2860 M-139, to build an addition between the offices and motel for a gift shop, $2,700.
- Manroe Raschke, to install cement slabs and a canopy to the Cor-A-Pack Corp., 1640 East Empire, which he owns, $2,500.
- V.C. Sales, St. Joseph, to install aluminum siding to a dwelling at 533 Sommerfelt is owned by Charles Ivy, $1,698.
- Ernest Hanners, 3634 Fieldtree, to construct a new garage for himself at that address, $1,500.
- V.C. Sales, to install aluminum siding to a dwelling at 2280 East Napier is owned by Hilding A. Peterson, $1,280.
- Hipskind Supply Co., Coloma, to re-roof two dwellings at Rizzo court, 1535 M-139 owned by Joseph Rizzo, 398 Jakway, Benton Harbor, $812.
- Briney Roofing and Siding Co., St. Joseph, to re-roof a dwelling at 251 Elvern owned by Joseph Schuebert, $660.
- King and Smith Roofing Co., Benton Harbor, to install a new roof on a dwelling at 1468 East Britain owned by Byron Boyle, $600.

Houseboater Gardens With Raft

SEATTLE (AP) — It all started when a decrepit raft banged against the Stephen Murphy houseboat on Lake Union.

Dumphy eyed it and decided to renovate the raft into a garden. Repairs cost $35, for 2-by-8 planks; boxes for vegetables, $35. A couple of old washtubs from a salvage bureau cost almost nothing.

Ten 35-pound bags of dirt, aided by six 40-pound bags of manure plus one bag of peat moss cost $35.

Once the garden was complete, Dumphy grew carrots, lettuce, spinach, cucumbers and pole string beans.

All were a success except the cucumbers, which didn't come up to expectations.

Q — I plan to use shellac on a number of projects soon. I know it dries very quickly. How long do I have to wait between coats?

A — While shellac dries to the touch very quickly, it takes several hours to set, so wait at least that long before applying a second coat. Even better, let it stand overnight.

Q — We have prefinished hardwood in our basement playroom. There are crayon marks on one of the walls. I'm afraid to try to get them off for fear of making them worse. Can you help me?

A — It shouldn't be much of a problem. First, wipe them with a soft, dry cloth. This will remove any of the excess crayon. Then clean with one of the household cleaning agents. Because the prefinishing is done at the factory, the coating will be durable enough to withstand rubbing with the cleaning agent.

Q — We have a smooth vinyl fabric wall covering in one of our rooms. It is still in excellent condition, but we'd like a change of color. What kind of paint can we use?

A — Apply a primer of alkyl wall paint. The final finish can be almost anything — another coat of the same paint, a latex paint or an enamel.

Q — I have been told to size a wall before hanging wallpaper. What's the purpose of sizing?

A — Sizing is a glutinous material which fills the pores in surfaces and makes the paper hang better. Some wallpaper pastes contain sizing and thus do away with a separate coating operation.

Seven

Jobs On

BH List

The Benton Harbor building inspection department during the past week issued seven permits for varied jobs totaling an estimated $22,700.

Heading the list of construction starts was an 8 by 20-foot brick and concrete pavilion, with canopy, for a lot at North McCord street and Edgemoor avenue. Valuation was estimated at $19,950 in a permit issued to Superior Home Builders.

Other permits were issued to Lucille Barts, for residing a house she owns at 273 Parker avenue, $1,200; Andrew Lee to build a 14 by 20-foot one-car garage at his home, 1148 Agard avenue, $500; James Scruggs Sr., for roofing work on a six-family apartment house he owns at 523-25 Columbus avenue, $400; and on a store he owns at 423-27 Territorial road, $200; Esther Light, for roofing work on a store building she owns at 421 Riford street, $300; and Action Rentals, for roofing work on a single-family dwelling the firm owns at 771 Ogden avenue, $150.

MULCHES

Mulching vegetables and shrubs is a good practice to conserve moisture, control weeds and in some cases reduce disease.

Possible materials to use are black plastic, peat moss, bark, leaves, compost, straw, hay or grass clippings.

Try 'em!

ONION FLOWERS

Premature flowering and seeding is attributed to large sets, to unfavorable storage conditions under which the sets had been kept prior to planting; and to unfavorable weather during the growth of the onions. Low temperatures and anything that checks the growth will encourage flowering.

SYCAMORE PROBLEMS

There are some leaves dropping from sycamore caused by a fungus disease, Anthracnose. Infection took place about the time the buds opened. Small twigs may also be killed. It is too late for control now. Some new leaves will replace those that are dropping. The problem is worse during wet springs.

Man Drowns Attempting To Save Life Of Youth

YPSILANTI, Mich. (AP) — A 27-year-old area man drowned Friday after he pulled a 14-year-old youth to safety from the Huron River, Washtenaw County authorities report.

The family of the dead man, Charles C. Shock said he "loved kids." His death was one of three county drownings which occurred within a six-hour period.

Shock, who served in the Navy and was believed to be a good swimmer, pulled Tom L. Sargent from the river near the Ann Arbor dam after the youth, who was fishing from the bank, slipped into the water.

Then, witnesses reported, Shock, of Ypsilanti Township, apparently slipped and fell into the flow from the dam's spillway, rolled over "once and disappeared. His body was recovered two hours later by a marine safety team from the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Police.

The water at the site is only six feet deep, but the current was swift and observers said Shock may have struck his head as he fell.

Also dead in a drowning incident is Michael V. Jackson, 21, of Ypsilanti Township, who died in Ford Lake while swimming. Friends said he dipped beneath the water and was dead by the time they reached him.

Lewis N. Phillips, 21, of Ann Arbor, drowned while swimming at a Washtenaw County metropark. Witnesses said he called for help, dipped below the water, surfaced again and sank from sight.

Syrian Talks Enter Second Day

By KENNETH J. FREED Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Talks between Syrian Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger are moving into an unexpected second day in the search for progress in Middle East peace negotiations.

The original schedule for Khaddam's visit called only for Friday meetings with Kissinger and President Ford.

But two separate sessions with the secretary Friday and a 75-minute White House discussion with Ford showed additional talks were needed, a State Department official said.

He said Kissinger decided on today's breakfast meeting in order to obtain clarification of Syria's stand on some of the key issues outstanding between Israel and the Arab nations.

The official would not give details, but it was understood Khaddam expressed reservations that a new U.S. initiative to restart indirect talks between Israel and Egypt would leave his country isolated from the diplomatic process.

The Syrian foreign minister also was described as concerned over the announcement by the Israeli Labor party, the dominant element of Israel's government, that Syrian territory on the Golan Heights captured in 1967 and 1973 would be annexed.

Officials speaking on the record after Friday's meetings were vague about the discussions and pointedly refrained from mentioning progress.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen, for example, said only that Ford and Khaddam "exchanged views on the roads which might be followed in order to maintain momentum" toward a settlement.

The President also asked the foreign minister to convey to his government the American "conviction that all parties in the Middle East do everything possible to avoid stagnation," Nessen said.

Kissinger, for his part, told newsmen Friday that he and Khaddam "had a very constructive review of the Middle East negotiations and the prospects of peace."

However, the secretary twice stressed that the talks with Khaddam had "just started" and the process would have to be continued.

This was something the Ford administration wanted to avoid. The President and Kissinger feel the time is near when progress must be made or the Middle East could drift into another war.

Nessen made this concern clear when he said Ford told Khaddam the United States is determined to make every effort to avoid a stalemate in the negotiating process.

Once Khaddam returns to Damascus and reports back to Washington on his government's reaction, Ford and Kissinger hope to complete their re-examination of U.S. Middle East policy.

The major purpose of the review is to decide whether Kissinger should resume his effort at moving step by step toward a partial Egyptian-Israeli settlement and then work on an over-all agreement that includes Syria.

GOVERNORS WANT SAY WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Robert D. Ray, newly elected chairman of the National Governors' Conference, says the nation's state executives want to help formulate national policy.

Get Involved, Urges Milliken

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. (AP) — The public should become more involved in state spending decisions for the 1975-76 fiscal year, Gov. William Milliken said Friday. In a speech prepared for delivery to the Michigan Bankers Association, Milliken urged private citizens and business and community leaders to make their concerns known on increased spending and taxes. "I urge everyone who has a stake in our economy — and that is everyone — to let his or her legislator know that the state cannot afford new taxes at this time," Milliken said. Lawmakers at the Capitol are not considering new taxes for the coming fiscal year because of a recent income tax hike.

State Short On Student Aid

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Potential Michigan college students need about $30 million in government aid to meet educational costs but the state can't afford to provide the money, a state official says. About a third of Michigan's 433,000 college students received about $130 million in aid during the past year, according to Ronald Jursa, head of the state's student financial aid programs. With tuition at the average public institution nearing the $800 mark and the average total cost for attending college about $3,000 a year, student assistance is not helping as much as it once did, Jursa said. Most student aid comes from three state and four federal programs, plus local college plans and some private programs. Aid takes several forms, coming as grants, scholarships, loans or work-study assistance.

Calhoun Has 'Sick' Calls

MARSHALL, Mich. (AP) — Calhoun County Prosecutor John Rae said seven of his assistants called in sick Friday after negotiations on a new contract with the county reached an impasse. The Calhoun County Assistant Prosecutors Association said it is seeking "substantial" pay increases to bring pay levels up to a "reasonable level." The association said it rejected a 2 per cent pay increase offered by the county. Rae said he had no indication when the assistants would return to work. He added that his office was continuing to function.

Smeekens Decision Upheld

DETROIT (AP) — A state Bar Grievance Board upheld Friday the findings of a hearing panel which ordered former State Rep. John Smeekens disbarred from practicing law. Smeekens was ordered permanently disbarred for fraudulently claiming that he had cancer to obtain a law license, for misusing state travel funds and for conflict of interest because he headed the Hillsdale Foundry Co. when serving in the state House and appealing on the company's behalf to state commissions. Six members of the seven-person board were present at the hearing and all supported the panel's findings and the disbarment order.

Feared Giancana Would Tell Secrets

The Justice Department strike force on organized crime here, said the government was developing a perjury case against Giancana in connection with his replies to questions about his activities in Mexico. The government immunity did not extend to the perjury charge.

Vaira was one of two government agents who went to Mexico to investigate Giancana's activities. The mobster went into self-imposed exile in Mexico after completing a two-year prison term for refusing to testify before another federal grand jury.

Giancana was killed the day he returned from Houston, Tex., where Dr. Michael E. DeBakey, a renowned heart specialist, led a team of doctors who removed his gall bladder.

Investigators theorized syndicate leaders, some of whom gathered at the Giancana home to welcome him back, may have sensed that because he was weak, ailing and facing a possible perjury charge Giancana might be ripe to talk.

This view was advanced by Steve Schiller, Chicago Crime Commission chief, and Vincent Inserra, head of the FBI's organized crime squad.

Police said $1,458 in cash was found in his pocket, making robbery an unlikely motive.

One puzzling aspect of the slaying was the use of a .22-caliber automatic pistol. In most of the 1,023 gangland slayings in Chicago since 1919, a shotgun or heavy bore weapon was used.

Authorities noted, however, that another mob figure, Anthony J. Battaglia, was fatally shot two months ago with a .38-caliber weapon.

Giancana's killer might well have preferred a smaller weapon because it would be easier to conceal and make less noise, authorities said.

Portuguese Rulers Nix Violence

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Portugal's military rulers set classless society as their national goal today, but repudiated violence or dictatorship to get there.

In a broad policy statement whose moderation surprised some Western diplomats, the all-military Revolutionary Council endorsed the role of civilian political parties and restated a commitment to pluralist democracy.

At the same time, the council promised a crackdown on secret armed leftist groups, outlined an austerity program to fit a grim economic crisis and threatened tighter controls on information media.

Gurney Acquittal

Bid Is Rejected

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — A federal judge has refused to acquit former Sen. Edward J. Gurney on any of seven criminal charges in an alleged influence peddling scheme and ordered the defense to begin presenting its case Monday.

U.S. District Court Judge Ben Krentzman, after hearing daylong arguments without the jury Friday, denied all motions for directed verdicts of acquittal for the Florida Republican and three codefendants in the 17-week-old trial.

Woman Charges Campus Sex Bias

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's college campuses are centers of discrimination against women, but the institutions continue to receive hundreds of millions of dollars in federal aid and contracts, a House panel has been told.

"Every official institutional self-study that we know of has documented the existence of policies and practices that deny women full and equal opportunity," said Dr. Jean Simmons, president of the 64-group Federation of Organizations for Professional Women.

INJURED IN SQUEEZE: Jennifer Sue Vera, 17, Kalamazoo, was listed in good condition at Bronson hospital, Kalamazoo, after sustaining broken collarbone yesterday afternoon when car she was driving rolled over on Red Arrow highway, three miles east of Paw Paw. State police at Paw Paw said Miss Vera lost control of car as she attempted to stop while approaching slower vehicles in front of her. Car skidded 150 feet, rolled over, then struck tree, troopers said. Accident happened at 1:15 p.m. (Staff photo)

Baroda Bridge Buckles Under Truck

IN THE WATER: Two-lane Church street bridge in Village of Baroda buckled and collapsed into Hickory creek last night just as flatbed semi truck, loaded with 102,252 pounds of steel, passed over about 7 p.m. Truck made it safely to west end, but load was apparently too much for bridge, which was not posted with weight load limit signs, according to Berrien Sheriff's Lt. Douglas A. Tiefenbach. Auto traffic was re-routed to Lemon Creek road bridge, which is posted with weight limit signs for trucks. Trucks are now using Stevensville-Baroda road into village. (C.C. Brooks photos)

LOOKING DOWN: Baroda village residents gather to look at crumpled remains of Church street bridge. Village Clerk Mrs. Leonard Tollas said bridge is owned by village, but cost estimates for rebuilding have to be determined. Mrs. Tollas said village has been planning to replace Lemon Creek road bridge, parallel to this structure and also in the village. Cost estimates for Lemon Creek bridge are $80,000. Decision on whether to rebuild bridge must await village council consideration.

Covert Postmaster Tells Why School's Millage Mail Rejected

By ALAN AREND
Staff Writer
COVERT — Covert Postmaster Duane Castor said yes-

DUANE CASTOR
Explains decision

terday he did not accept a school mailing on the June 9 Covert millage issue because the text of the material appeared questionable to him under guidelines established for bulk mailing permits.

The Covert school board Wednesday night demanded an explanation from the Covert post office on why the school mailing was not accepted.

Castor said upon receiving the material from William Randall, school superintendent, on Thursday, June 5, and after reading the material he questioned if the text of the material would disqualify it.

Castor said he didn't feel qualified to make the decision alone, so he said he called the mail classification department in Kalamazoo for a ruling.

Castor said he read the complete text of the school election material to an assistant mail classification officer, who told Castor it was also his opinion the material was not proper for mailing.

Castor said he then called Randall, informing him of his conversation with the assistant mail classification officer and gave the officer's name and phone number to Randall.

Randall then came back to the post office later in the day and picked up the material, saying he had talked with the classification officer.

Castor said the Covert school district has the only non-profit bulk mailing permit issued by his post office. He said the district in May sent another flyer out on the June 9 election through its bulk mailing permit, but "that flyer simply stated facts about the election."

He said he questioned the second flyer, because throughout it were the words "Vote Yes, Vote Yes, Vote Yes." Castor said he was under the understanding that certain types of political activities are not allowed under the postal guidelines for non-profit bulk mailing permits, if considered unfair to the opposition.

Castor said the bulk mailing rate for the district on such material would have been 1.8 cents per copy and he felt that any opposing group sending a flyer saying "Vote No, Vote No, Vote No," would have to pay 10 cents per copy, the regular rate.

However, Castor said he received a call from Mike Ahern, postal inspector at Kalamazoo, on Monday, June 9, the day of the election, and was informed that the school district's election flyer was okay and was not in violation of postal guidelines under the non-profit bulk mailing permit.

Castor said he has since talked with John Van Eck, Postmaster manager of the Kalamazoo district office, who informed him the school district's election flyer probably would have been alright to send through the mails under the bulk rate guidelines.

He said Van Eck advised him in future instance to inform the school superintendent ahead of time, so a copy of any such flyers can be examined by the postal service's mail classification department, and a ruling made.

Castor said he planned to inform Randall on the matter.

Concerning the recent election flyer, Castor said, "I could have been wrong. I've gotten several different opinions on it, one agreeing with me, another not agreeing. I'm in the middle now."

Castor has been postmaster at Covert for the past 21 years. He said the school district has had a non-profit bulk mailing permit for about a year, and usually the school district only sent its newsletter through the bulk rate.

The June 9 property tax levy request of 16 mills for three years was rejected by district voters by a 485 to 246 margin. The school board Wednesday night scheduled a second election on renewal of the 16 mills for Aug. 4. This request will be for two years instead of three.

City Councilman Resigns Position In South Haven

SOUTH HAVEN — Norvan Books, second ward South Haven city councilman, tendered his resignation yesterday, according to City Clerk Miss Rita Verdonk.

Books, serving the second year of a four-year term, cited business reasons as his reason for resigning. He is owner of Books Home Furniture, South Haven.

Books, contacted this morning, declined comment on whether broadcasts by a South Haven radio station of city council meetings played any part in his resignation. He reportedly has been opposed to the radio broadcasts of council meetings.

Books is the third alderman to resign from the South Haven city council since last fall. William Andresen, first ward alderman resigned last September. Donald Goodwillie Sr., appointed to replace Andresen, resigned from the council earlier this month, due to reasons of poor health.

Driver Was Alone On Motorcycle

A report of a Thursday car-motorcycle collision in Benton Harbor that appeared in Friday editions of this newspaper incorrectly listed three people as riders of the motorcycle.

Joseph Mikowski, 24, of 550 North Crystal avenue, Benton township, was alone on the motorcycle.

A Benton Harbor motorist, Eugene Miller, 27, of 518 Broadway, was ticketed for failure to stop and identify at a traffic accident.

PAW PAW — The state highway commission has announced plans to acquire a 38-mile section of abandoned railroad property between South Haven and Kalamazoo which will be converted into a public bicycle and bridge path.

The non-motorized trail will be the first of its type in Michigan, with completion scheduled for sometime during 1976, according to Carl Jager, a state transportation planner. The $800,000 project is a joint venture of the state highway department and the Department of Natural Resources, with matching federal funds coming from the Department of the Interior. The trail will follow the abandoned Penn Central railroad line from Kalamazoo through the Van Buren county communities of Gobles, Bertram, Grand Junction, and Kibbie, on into South Haven. Eventually, the state hopes to extend the path to the Van Buren state park near South Haven, Jager said.

Planners envision an eight-foot paved bicycle path which will run parallel with a bridge path along a 100-foot right-of-way. The land involved will be acquired by the highway department, with the DNR handling the jurisdiction and supervision of the paths. Penn Central will handle the removal of the existing trackage, Jager said.

Jager termed the trail a pilot project, noting that it is the first bridge path ever constructed by the state highway department. About 30 other non-motorized trails are now under construction or have been completed in Michigan by the highway department. The Kalamazoo to South Haven route was chosen, Jager said, because of the large metropolitan area involved, and the fact that it lies in a corridor designated for such use by the master state recreation plan. It was also felt, he said, that land acquisition could be accomplished relatively quickly.

The route promises to be scenic, Jager noted, offering a combination of rolling hills, flatlands, and wooded areas.

STILL ROLLING: Steel-loaded semi, owned and operated by Thomas McGrath, 42, Baroda, is still rolling after clearing collapsing bridge. McGrath said he was eastbound and saw bridge go down in rear view mirror. Rear trailer bounced a little and landing gear scraped buckled road, but semi escaped with minor damage. McGrath said a pickup driver behind him hadn't entered bridge when collapse occurred. Pickup driver made "U" turn and drove off, McGrath said. Semi was weighed on platform scale at Hoover-Ugine plant, Lake township, and was found within legal load limits, Sheriff's Lt. Tiefenbach reported. Weighing was under supervision of a Public Service commission officer, Tiefenbach reported.

Simon's Amazing 64 Shatters Elk Record

Local Pro Uses Smoking Putter

Tex Simon is hoping his smoking putter doesn't cool off this weekend.

Simon, head pro and owner of Blossom Trails golf course, used some unbelievable putting last Monday to fire a fantastic record-shattering 64 at Elk Hills in a Western Michigan PGA Pro-Am event.

The 50-year-old swinger,

TEX SIMON
Fires Fantastic 64

competing this week in the Buick Open at Flint, broke the Elk Hills course record in real style...by three strokes. The old course mark on 67 was shared by St. Joseph's Steve Kulich and by Canadian Wilf Homenuik.

Simon put together a round most golfers can only dream of. He birdied half of the holes while collecting only one bogey on the par-72 Elk Hills course, considered a challenging test of golf.

Simon, who hit all 18 greens in regulation, toured the front nine in two-under-par 34 and then blistered the back nine with an amazing 30 which included six birdies.

"He told me he shot the 64 with his putter," relates Mark Rajcevic, Simon's step-son who was playing in the foursome. "He said he could do none much better. He usually gets on the green in regulation and when his putting is on he's really tough."

"He rolled in a lot of 20 footers. On No. 17 he rolled in a 30-footer on the hole with one of the hardest putting greens."

"He was quite elated...all smiles," offers Ned Scheffler, assistant pro at Elk Hills, who talked to Simon after the round. "He said he did it all with his putter. He also said everyone is playing for second place now."

The round was turned in under ideal weather conditions, according to Rajcevic.

Simon and his three amateur partners cleaned up top honors. Simon took the pro-pro event while Will Frantz, assistant pro at Point O' Woods, was third with 72. Simon's partners finished one-two-three in the pro-amateur event with Rajcevic first with best-ball 59, Tim Smith second with 61 and Ken Saurbier next with 62.

Kulich fired his 67 in 1972 in a pre-tournament qualifying round for the Western Amateur while Homenuik shot his 67 in 1973 in the Lake Michigan Golf Classic Pro-Am.

But it could be a long time before anyone comes close to approaching Simon's sensational 64.

Four Jumpers Sail 7-4 In AAU Meet

Davenport Hurt, Surgery Set

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — A hush fell over Hayward field. For the first time in history, three high jumpers had cleared 7 feet, 4 inches in the same meet. Now Tom Woods was ready for his third and final try at a world record height of 7-7.

Woods, who just completed his collegiate eligibility at Oregon State, missed. But he shrugged it off. "I definitely feel a 7-7 in me," he said. "I went to a clinic recently where I picked up a lot of technical flaws."

Woods cleared 7-5½ in winning the event on the opening day of the Amateur Athletic Union's national track and field championships. Rory Kotinek and world record holder Dwight Stones both cleared 7-4, finishing second and third, respectively.

All three represent the Pacific Coast Club.

The jump was a lifetime best for Woods as it was for Kotinek, who formerly competed in the long jump and javelin as well. For Stones, the two-time defending champion and holder of the world mark of 7-6½, it was a warning.

"Between now and my next meet Tuesday in Finland, I've got to get some sleep," said Stones, who overslept Friday and did not arrive at the stadium until one-half hour after the high jump competition began. "If this group is jumping like this, I've got to be ready."

It was an impressive first day but not one without misfortune. Willie Davenport, a three-time Olympian, fell in the semifinals of the 110-meter high hurdles and was scheduled to undergo surgery today for a torn cartilage below his left knee.

Davenport, who competes for the Baton Rouge Track Club, was leading at the time. "I've had trouble with the left knee before," he said, "but not to this extent. When I came over the last hurdle, my knee just gave way. I didn't hit any hurdles or anything."

Later, in the finals of the same event, both Guy Druet of France and defending champion Charles Foster of North Carolina Central fell and did not finish. They won their respective heats of the event, in which Gerald Wilson of the Beverly Hills Striders took first with 13.38 seconds.

Marty Liquori, normally a miler, won the 5,000 meters, taking the lead early and turning in a final lap of 58.8 on route to an AAU meet record of 13:29.

Liquori, representing the New York Athletic Club, finished about two seconds ahead of Dick Buerkle, also of NYAC. He said earlier in the week he wanted to run the 5,000 to help prepare for his rematch in the mile next week against Tanzania's Filbert Bayi.

Bayi set a world record of 3:51 last month with Liquori second in 3:52.2, fifth-fastest mile of all time. The rematch is set for Thursday in Helsinki.

Miss Babashoff Betters Own World Swim Mark

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Shirley Babashoff clearly demonstrated her hold over the 400-meter freestyle at the Amateur Athletic Union's World Championship swim trials, clocking 4:14.76, more than a second under her own world mark of 4:15.77 set in 1974.

In later action at the trials Friday, Camille Wright, who has finished third in the women's butterfly events more times than she cares to mention it, reversed her usual procedure Friday night by winning the 100-meter butterfly in 1:03.05.

She had a tough act to follow as America's premier woman freestyler, Miss Babashoff, opened the day's competition by stroking to her world mark.

Miss Babashoff took more than a second off her 4:15.77 world record edging Kathy Haddy, Summit, N.J., who was also under Babashoff's 1974 listed world mark with a 4:15.97 second-place time.

Miss Wright, who finished third in both the 100 and 200-meter butterfly races in last year's East German-U.S. dual meet, and again in the 1975 AAU national championships in the yard events, was surprised at her win in the world trials Friday.

"I almost didn't come to this meet," said the 20-year-old New Albany, Ind. flier. "I didn't think I'd do half this well. But my coach wanted me to come, so I decided I'd give it a try."

Peggy Tosdal, the American record holder in the 100 butterfly with a 1:02.18 time in 1974, failed to make the championship team, finishing third in 1:03.67 behind Jill Symons, a Chico, Calif. 14-year-old, who clocked 1:03.49.

In a surprise finish Friday night, Tim Shaw returned a 2:05.44 to take the men's 200-meter backstroke, an event he seldom enters. Since the 200 backstroke event is set for the same day as the 400 freestyle in the Cali, Colombia, world games, Shaw indicated he will skip the race to concentrate on the 400 freestyle, in which he swam a world record 3:53.95 in Thursday's action. The world meet is set for July 18-27.

Bob Carnes Hot At Hartford Oval

HARTFORD — Bob Carnes of Kalamazoo drove his 1974 Camaro to five wins, including two feature events, Friday night at the Hartford Motor Speedway.

Carnes took the feature postponed by rain a week ago and returned to edge out Johnny Benson in the regularly-scheduled feature.

Carnes also won a pair of fast car events and the Australian pursuit. Other Carnes challengers included Jim Rogel of Watervliet and Butch Miller of Benton Harbor. Benson did come up with a heat victory.

Jim Carr of Kalamazoo took the streaker main event, the feature rescheduled from last week and a heat race. Other streakers in the money were Mike Vandermaele of Kalamazoo, Frank Abbott and Dale Covey.

A total of 53 cars qualified, including 19 super stocks.

Kathy Ahern Tops Hoosier Tournney

PLYMOUTH, Ind. (AP) — Kathy Ahern shrugged off a two-year slump Friday and took the first round lead in the $40,000 Ladies Professional Golf Association Hoosier Classic with a five-under-par 67 at steamy Plymouth Country Club.

Miss Ahern, 26, played the back nine first in four-under 32 and, firing from the mid-90s heat and intense humidity, finished with a 35.

"It's the best I've played all year...very consistent," she said. She had five birdies and no bogeys on her round.

Following closely was longtime tour veteran Marlene Bauer Hagge with a 68. Mrs. Hagge, 41, who also said the heat bothered her a great deal on the back nine, fired five birdies and one bogey on the backside, then came home with a birdie and a bogey.

In all, 13 women finished under par-72 on the 6,225-yard, heavily bunkered course.

Nine other women, including defending champion JoAnne Carner, were locked together at par. Miss Carner, as steamed as the day after her round, suffered through five three-putt greens.

Hardie Ousts De Jesus, Makes Finals

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — Michigan saw its hopes for a second-place finish go down the drain Friday as it lost in both doubles and singles competition in the 91st National Collegiate Athletics Association tennis tournament.

Seasoned George Hardie, a senior from Southern Methodist University, battled with Michigan's Fred De Jesus and came out on top after a grueling 6-2, 4-6, 8-3, 7-6 match. Hardie and UCLA freshman sensation Billy Martin, will be in today's finals.

Martin combined with Brian Teacher in the doubles competition to defeat Jerry Karzan and Eric Freidler of Michigan 7-5, 7-5, 6-3. The two will meet Bruce Manson and Butch Walls of USC in the finals although the Bruins already have clinched the team title. Manson and Walls advanced to the finals defeating Alvaro Filloil and John Eagleton of Miami of Florida 6-3, 6-1, 6-4.

Martin has indicated he will turn pro if he can win the NCAA title. He crushed Joao Soares of Pepperdine, 6-0, 6-4, 6-4. Hardie says he will turn pro in a few days. He wrapped up the victory over De Jesus by winning his fourth tie-breaker point of the tournament, scoring three of his five points on aces.

Hardie grabbed a quick 3-0 lead in the first set and made it stand up for a 6-2 victory. Then he faltered as De Jesus pulled even.

"My legs were a little rubbery in the middle of the match," Hardie said. "I felt a little dizzy. If I hadn't gotten an early break in the third I'd have been in real trouble."

"I could say I was satisfied with how I played," said De Jesus. "I have played better, though. I started serving well a little too late and I wasn't able to get my volleys in, but a lot of that was because of George."

Martin, the No. 1 seed, was nearly flawless as he outclassed the unseeded Soares.

UCLA already has clinched the team championship on a point basis.

"There is nothing else I can do for the team," he said. "We had a perfect season. We won the Pac-Eight Conference and the NCAA and that's only happened once before in school history. That's when Jimmy Connors did it and won the title himself."

After Friday's competition UCLA had 26 points followed by Miami with 20, Trinity, 19; Michigan, Southern Methodist and Stanford, 17 each.

Grid Season Starts Tonight!

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — In 1973, an unheralded runner by the name of Terry Metcalf, virtually anonymous outside the state of California, burst on the Coaches All-America football game scene and dazzled a nation.

He dodged and dashed 18 times for 135 yards and scored a touchdown in a 20-6 West victory over the East.

That's one of the factors which make fun games like tonight's 15th annual Coaches All-America contest. There are the name players, like linebacker Red Shoate of Oklahoma and quarterback David Humm of Nebraska.

But there are the unknowns — somebody you've never heard of who could very well be the star of the game, like Metcalf, who went from Long Beach State to become a star with the St. Louis Cardinals of the National Football League. Players like Thomas Henderson of Langston University, a No. 1 pick of the Dallas Cowboys; Willard Harrell of the University of Pacific; Stan Winfrey of Arkansas State; or Fred Solomon of Tampa could stand out.

About 40,000 fans, and a national television audience were to eye the 8 p.m. CDT, kickoff in Jones Stadium. The West owns an 8-6 edge and has taken the last two games.

Steve Sloan, who switched jobs from Vanderbilt to Texas Tech New Year's Day, and Baylor's Grant Teaff, College Football's Coach of the Year, will guide the East and West teams, respectively.

Sloan will ride with quarterback Mike Frankowski of Central Michigan and Solomon, who sometimes uses his 4.4 speed in the 40 to circle end on options plays. Woody Thompson of Miami is Sloan's top runner.

Teaff will start his own Neal Jeffrey, who has a speech impediment but remarkably is able to control the problem while in charge of a football team. Humm will more than likely log equal time.

Don Hardeman of Texas A&M, a bruising runner who was drafted No. 1 by the Houston Oilers, and Harrell are the top ground pounders for the favored West.

Sloan said to add a little spice to things he has installed a legal trick play to spring on the West. "I like to have at least one of those for every game," he said.

Lubbock fans can hardly wait, since it will be Sloan's coaching debut in the stadium where the Red Raiders play.

Pele Mobbed, Slightly Hurt

BOSTON (AP) — Pele has scored more than 1,200 goals in his brilliant soccer career, but it's doubtful he'll soon forget the one he had disallowed at Boston University's Nickerson Field.

The 34-year-old Brazilian, who recently signed a $4.5-million contract with the New York Cosmos, was mobbed on the field Friday night during a North American Soccer League game with the Boston Minutemen.

With New York trailing 1-0 Pele scored an apparent tying goal with 11:33 left, putting in a rebound from close-up. Overzealous fans, standing six deep around the field, swarmed Pele as he danced his familiar goalscoring routine.

Pele disappeared from view as hundreds ran on to the field. Police dispersed the crowd as a stretcher was wheeled out. Then a cordon of police escorted Pele — who was on the stretcher — to the dressing room.

"Don't worry, I'll be all right," Pele said as he, left, stopping once to autograph a ball.

The Cosmos first announced that their new super star was not injured, that he was taken from the game as "a security play." However, the word was different after the game, won by the Minutemen 2-1 on Wolfgang Suntholz' goal at 2:06 of the second overtime.

A spokesman said that Pele suffered a muscle pull on the inside of his right knee and a twisted ankle. The injuries did not appear serious, the spokesman said, "but we'll have to wait until tomorrow to see."

Pele had only one other shot on goal in his third game with the Cosmos. In the first half, Boston goalie Shep Messing robbed Pele on an indirect free kick.

Watervliet went up 2-1 in the fourth on a walk, an error, Bill Lindemann's single and a two-run error.

Coloma then got the winning tallies in a two-run fifth. After a walk and an error, Wally Kroschel came through with a game-tying double; Robinson followed with his game-winning single.

Ford Ready To Offer Oil Decontrol Plan

By HOWARD BENEDICT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) —

President Ford, disappointed at a House-passed energy bill, intends to submit to Congress soon his plan to decontrol the price of domestic crude oil, Press Secretary Ron Nessen reports.

But Ford is reserving judgment on whether to impose a third $1-per-barrel tariff on imported oil until he sees what energy action is taken by the Senate, Nessen said Friday.

Nessen said the President is willing to work with Congress on an energy bill but feels the measure passed by the House Thursday "is a piece of paper that just doesn't get there."

He said Ford still believes the United States must free itself from dependence on foreign oil by 1985 so that foreign producers cannot "blackmail or hold the United States hostage by raising the price at their own whim or by cutting off supplies at their own whim."

He said that to do this Congress must enact a program that will reduce oil consumption and spur development of alternative energy sources.

The bill passed by the House "simply doesn't get anywhere near those goals," Nessen said.

He said it is now up to the Senate "to start again, to pass a bill that will reach the goals set by the President."

The press secretary said Ford intends to submit a program to Congress soon to decontrol the price of domestic crude oil as a means of encouraging producers to explore for new sources of oil.

About three-fifths of U.S.-produced oil is now subject to price controls and is selling at about $5.25 a barrel. Other oil, including foreign oil, is selling at more than $10 a barrel.

Nessen said Ford took what administrative action he could to reduce oil consumption by raising the import tariff on oil by $2 a barrel in two steps. In announcing that action last January, Ford said he intended to raise the tariff a total of $3, but Nessen said Friday that Ford will not add the final dollar until he sees what the Senate does.

The House passed the energy bill Thursday but only after deleting a three-cent to 23-cent increase in the gasoline tax, the key conservation section.

Nessen said Ford still favors going ahead with exploring the continental shelf off the Atlantic coast for oil despite a report by government geologists slashing their estimates of the amount of oil off the Atlantic coast by 80 per cent.

In another energy development, a Federal Energy Administration auditor said the agency is so intent on removing controls from oil prices that it has virtually ignored its enforcement responsibilities.

The auditor, Paul Maloy, told a Senate subcommittee that the FEA's New England division has never collected penalties from firms that violate FEA regulations because the office has never received instructions from Washington on how penalties are to be assessed.

Meanwhile, the FEA said in a report that foreign subsidiaries of some U.S. oil firms may have overcharged by $170 million the petroleum shipped to this country during the Arab oil boycott.

The agency said it was informing the companies of its calculations and would make the notices public once replies have been received.

The extra charges may have been levied unintentionally, but the parent companies still could be barred from passing them on in consumer prices and could be required to roll back prices or make refunds, the FEA said.

The problem revolves around the "transfer price" that the exporting subsidiary charges the importing subsidiary. Such prices are not bound by U.S. price-control laws and any increase imposed overseas eventually could show up as a profit for the parent U.S. firm, with the cost being borne by the consumer.

India's Ruling Party Mulls Replacement For Gandhi

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — India's ruling Congress party is facing severe strains as it contemplates the possibility of having to choose a new leader to succeed Prime Minister Indira Gandhi.

For the moment, there is outward unity as party workers at state and national levels rally around Mrs. Gandhi, urging her to remain in office while appealing her conviction by a regional court of having illegally won her seat in parliament in 1971.

But party sources acknowledge that the unity could evaporate quickly if the nation's Supreme Court rules that she cannot remain as head of the government during the appeals stage, which is likely to take at least three months and possibly longer.

If the Supreme Court orders Mrs. Gandhi to resign as prime minister, the Congress party would elect a new leader for its parliamentary group. Under the Indian constitution, the new leader of the Congress parliamentarians would become the new prime minister.

Such a Supreme Court ruling would mean that the Congress party would have to consider the question, "After Indira, who?" It is acknowledged that the answer would be as difficult to find as when a similar question — "After Nehru, who?" — was asked during the last years Mrs.

Gandhi's father, Jawaharlal Nehru, was in power as prime minister.

Like her father, Mrs. Gandhi has not groomed any successor or indicated whom she would prefer.

If forced to step down from power while the Supreme Court hears her appeal, the prime minister conceivably could be asked by the party to designate an interim leader.

But this possible solution has already been opposed by some followers of Food Minister Jagjivan Ram, the most senior member in her cabinet and an arch opponent of the close ties that Mrs. Gandhi has fostered with the pro-Moscow Communist party.

Ram's followers feel that the prime minister might pick another cabinet minister or even a state political leader who would be less hostile to the leftwing faction of the party.

That faction, led by party president D.K. Borooah, has dominated organizational affairs since Mrs. Gandhi forced a split in the Congress party five years ago, when she gained undisputed supremacy.

The party survived a key test of unity on June 18 when more than 500 Congress members of both houses of Parliament adopted a resolution proclaiming faith in Mrs. Gandhi and declaring that "her continued leadership as prime minister is indispensable for the nation." Significantly, Ram introduced the resolution with a strong speech supporting Mrs. Gandhi in her hour of crisis.

But the resolution did not deal with the difficult issue — which congressmen hope will never come up — of what happens if the Supreme Court upholds her conviction and rules in effect that the country should get along without Mrs. Gandhi.

Five leading dissident Congress members of Parliament stayed away from the meeting because they did not accept the stand that Mrs. Gandhi's leadership is indis-

Guerrillas Say Ransom Totaled $60 Million

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Left-wing Peronist guerrillas claim they have received $60 million, a world record ransom, for the release of two industrialist brothers.

Family members confirmed the Montoneros guerrillas released Jorge Born, 41, on Friday. They also disclosed that his 38-year-old brother, Juan, had been freed secretly 45 days ago. The brothers are directors in Bunge y Born, a large agricultural and industrial complex with international interests.

The amount of ransom the guerrillas claimed they received far surpassed the $14.2 million paid by Exxon last year to the People's Revolutionary Army, an anti-Peronist Marxist guerrilla group, for the release of one of its American executives, Victor Samuelson.

Bunge y Born officials had no comment.

A Montoneros' communique said the $60 million was not just a ransom but also a "fine" for exploitation of the Argentine people.

The guerrillas forced Bunge y Born to provide more than a million dollars worth of food and clothing for the poor.

Bunge y Born also agreed to consider sweeping wage increases and benefits to workers, and to put busts of the late President Juan D. Peron and his second wife, Eva, in its factories.

The Borns were seized Sept. 19 in a precision operation that left an executive and a driver dead.

Informed sources said Montoneros chieftain Mario Firmenich held a clandestine news conference Friday and presented Jorge Born to a few reporters. Born was said to be in good condition and told the newsmen he had been treated well.

The Montoneros said they had kept the brothers in a small "people's jail" where they had regular exercise, read newspapers and magazines and listened to the radio.

Family sources said they could not talk about the ordeal but added, "It was a nightmare."

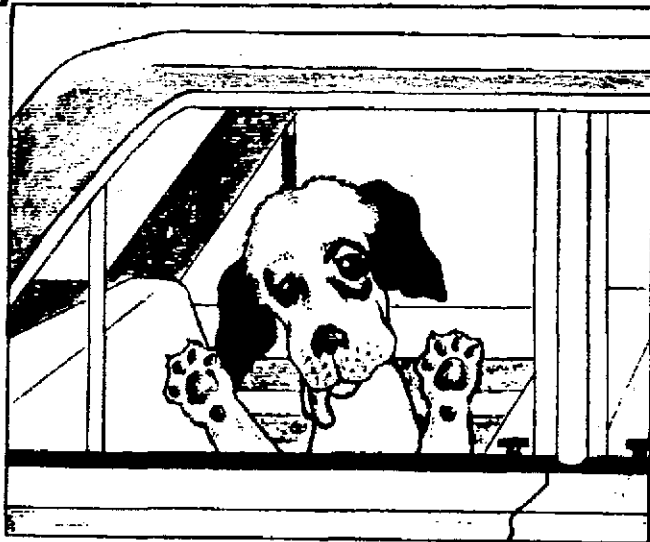

Last February the Montoneros kidnaped and killed John Patrick Egan, the U.S. honorary consul in Cordoba.

In their communique Friday, delivered clandestinely to newsmen, the Montoneros said: "All this money has a predetermined destiny: to be converted to popular organization."

More Women Take College Career Path

Enrollment Up In U-M Graduate Schools

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — An increasing number of women are choosing the academic path to professional careers, and the enrollment of women is rising throughout University of Michigan graduate schools.

The percentage of women in U-M's Business School was up last year from 11 per cent to 14 per cent from 1973-1974 to 1974-1975. Officials in the law, medical, dentistry and engineering schools also report the percentage of women was up two to three per cent.

University records show that the percentage of women is highest in the School of Dentistry, where women claim 25 per cent of the total — up from 23 per cent in 1973-1974.

U-M officials cite two reasons for the increase: Federal pressure on the university to comply with affirmative action programs, and a new attitude among women about the importance of career opportunities.

"Women are thinking that whatever they want to do, they can do," says Eunice Burns, head of the U-M Commission for Women. "They want something different, not the same old stereotypical thing."

Mrs. Burns says awareness is growing among admission officials concerning the need to enroll more women.

In 1973, women comprised 14 per cent of the student body in U-M's School of Medicine. The percentage now is 17 per cent and increasing.

Nationally, the number of women in medical schools is also up three per cent, from 15 per cent in 1973 to 18 per cent in 1974. At U-M, female enrollment increased from 282 in 1973 to 330 this past year.

"I believe we're seeing a trend," said Colin Campbell, assistant dean of student affairs at the medical school.

"In Russia more than 50 per cent of the physicians are women. In other countries, such as Canada and Great Britain, there also are more women doctors than we have here," Campbell noted.

Currently 300,568 women are doctors in the United States, 8.3 per cent of the total.

The situation is similar in the nation's law school. Women increased their enrollment share from 15 to 19 per cent in the past year. At Michigan, the number of women in Law School rose from 185 in 1973 — 17 per cent of the total — to 229, 20 per cent.

Women are "feeling they want to take power into their own hands, and law is a very powerful tool," says Rhonda Rivera, assistant dean of student affairs at U-M Law.

It long has been hard for women to find jobs, she said, but now "women can start their own practices and don't have to find a job in an all male law firm."

Business School figures show 161 women enrolled in 1973-74 and 230 women last year.

"There is a growing interest in management careers on the part of women," says James Ardis, director of admissions at U-M School of Business Administration.

Twenty per cent of the entering class is women, but Ardis said he would not be surprised if some time in the future it women totaled 50 per cent of the class.

In the School of Dentistry, the enrollment of women is up from 23 percent in 1973 to 25 percent in 1974. The School of Engineering also reported a slight increase in women students.

Van Buren Fair Plans Top Shows

HARTFORD — Motorcycle and car thrill shows, a demolition derby, appearances by two country-western singing groups, and the traditional livestock auctions are among the many activities planned for the 17th annual Van Buren Youth fair here July 21-26.

Last year's fair drew a record attendance of 42,900, and Fair Manager Duane Castor of Watervliet predicted the crowds will continue to climb.

The biggest change in the fair this year, Castor said, is the addition of five new horse shelters. The $25,000 project is expected to be completed just before the fair opening.

Entertainment will be a keynote at this year's fair, with appearances by country-western stars Toni Ingraham, and Barbara Fairchild and the Teddy Bears planned, as well shows by stunt driver Dan Flenor and his Hell Drivers, motorcycle daredevils, the Death Riders, and the International Demolition derby.

The fairgrounds are on CR-681 near Red Arrow highway between Hartford and Lawrence.

Ticket prices will remain the same as last year — $1.75 for adults, 75 cents for children six to 12, and no charge for children under six.

Sisters On Mission Of Love

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Two British sisters have traveled 3,400 miles to try to save the life of a brother they haven't seen in 12 years. One will give him a kidney and the other is here as a standby. "I sure am lucky," said Charles Gaster, 50, as he beamed and hugged his sisters upon their arrival Friday night. For nearly two years, Gaster kept his kidney disease a secret from his sisters, Vera Jenner, 52, and Audrey Taffe, 49, of Kent, England. But they became suspicious of hand-aids they noticed in pictures he sent home, learned the marks were due to treatment on a kidney machine and soon decided on a trans-Atlantic kidney transport.

THIN LINE HARD TO DEFINE

'Time Bombs' Walk The Streets

By MARTIN HIRSCHMAN
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) — Since last September, 152 persons — found innocent of a variety of crimes by reason of insanity — have been released from state custody under the new Michigan Mental Health Code.

One county prosecutor calls them "time bombs walking around the streets that could go off at any time." In only nine months, authorities say their freedom has resulted in at least three murders and three rapes.

Under new rules designed to protect the rights of the mentally ill, the 152 persons were released from state mental institutions because it was not proven that they were insane.

John McGee, who police say is an admitted professional killer, was accused of murder exactly one month after his release after police found his wife stomped to death.

Legislators are working to rewrite state law so that the public is protected from persons who walk the thin line between insanity and just plain criminality.

As interpreted in a landmark 4-3 state Supreme Court ruling, the state's new mental health code requires court orders for all involuntary commitments — including those for people found innocent by reason of insanity.

At Probate Court hearings, prosecutors must convince a jury that the patient continues to be mentally ill and dangerous to himself or others. Otherwise they must be freed.

In most cases, prosecutors have not even been able to scare up the certificates from two psychiatrists needed to force a hearing.

Doctors at the state's Center for Forensic Psychiatry say many of their patients are dangerous and may be suffering from "personality disorders," but are not mentally ill and never were — despite what was decided at the criminal trial.

State officials say 48 persons have been ordered committed by probate courts, 39 are on unauthorized leaves and 30 are being held for 60 days pending a determination of their mental condition.

The landmark McQuillan ruling by the state Supreme Court has left prosecutors fighting tooth-and-nail against pleas of innocent by reason of insanity. They say they fear the defendants may be back on the streets in weeks.

A shocking series of tragedies apparently involving those released under the new requirements makes their point.

McGee is the most dramatic example. Police say he admitted under a grant of immunity last year to fulfilling murder contracts on seven persons. Shortly afterwards he was found innocent by reason of insanity of second-degree murder and was sent to the Forensic Center.

Though the judge in the case says he thought McGee would be held "forever," he was released March 14 under the new code. Probate court jurors who heard the case agreed McGee was dangerous, but said prosecutors failed to prove he was insane.

On April 14, Julian Ann McGee was killed. McGee was taken back into custody.

George Lee was released in October, shortly after the McQuillan ruling. He had been found innocent by reason of insanity in a brutal sexual assault on a young female acquaintance.

In December, Lee was charged with the slaying of an elderly Flint couple.

Ronald R. Manley of Detroit was charged in March with the rape of a pregnant woman and the rape and beating of another.

He went free two months earlier after a year in custody following his verdict of innocent by reason of insanity in a 1972 rape.

Abe Lincoln Jones of Flint was released from a state institution by a probate court judge in December after more than a year of confinement following an innocent verdict in a car theft case. He was arrested in May and charged with forcible rape.

But it was the McGee case that first gave headlines to the release of those found innocent by reason of insanity. His release came as a shock to prosecutors and psychiatrists.

"Oh Christ. I can't think of many people that we've had here that are more dangerous than he is. But who am I to argue with the wisdom of a jury?" exclaimed Dr. Ames Robey, director of the forensic center.

In the 1974 case against McGee, prosecutors agreed to McGee's insanity plea without forcing a trial. The judge who accepted the plea, Clarence Laster, said he thought he was sending McGee to the forensic center "for a long, long time — forever."

To Genesee County Prosecutor Robert Leonard, the lesson of the McGee case is to contest all insanity pleas. His office successfully fought two such cases recently in a burglary and a murder.

"We've been able to show the testimony of the psychiatrists is highly suspect," Leonard said. "You've got a guy who's killed one or two people and a psychiatrist comes in an talks to him for 30 minutes and declares him insane — the jury has to consider the credibility of that determination."

Prosecutors in Wayne County, which includes Detroit, also are looking more closely at insanity pleas.

"Before the McQuillan decision there was the assumption that people found innocent by reason of insanity would be kept off the streets and given treatment," said assistant prosecutor Charles Seller. "Now with the possibility of these people being released, we feel that determination (of insanity) has to be looked at more closely."

Dr. Donald C. Smith, acting director of the state Mental Health Department, set up a blue ribbon commission to study the law. In a recent newsletter he urged citizens to recognize that mental illness is not a "lifetime problem" and that it is "illegal to confine a person in a state mental hospital unless he is mentally ill."

Rep. Joyce Symons, who chairs the Mental Health Committee of the Michigan House, is pushing legislation to make convictions of mentally disturbed persons easier and to keep them in custody longer.

Legislation passed by the House would allow juries to find a defendant guilty and mentally ill, opening the way to treatment administered through the corrections department.

made no definite commitment to join with Watervliet city and township in forming a proposed community owned and operated ambulance service.

Smith said at present the board has made no decision on two possible avenues of action concerning ambulance service for township residents.

According to Smith, when the present private service goes out of business June 30, township residents needing an ambulance should call the nearest available ambulance until other action is taken.

Smith said besides the proposal outlined for both the city and townships, the board is looking at the possibility of joining the Twin Cities Area community emergency ambulance service.

"I'm sure we'll pick one of the two, but at this time we are not making any decision just because the present service to the Watervliet area is ending June 30," Smith said.

Smith added Trustee Chet Weber is representing the township temporarily on the newly-formed township/city ambulance board along with two representatives from Watervliet city and township, but only as an interested party.

Market Soars On A-Fuel

By CHET CURRIER
AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market, bogged down in profit taking and economic uncertainty since early May, got rolling again this past week with a sharp and broadly based rally.

The chief catalysts for the upsurge were evidence of easing inflation, renewed hopes for an improving economy, and talk from the White House of giving private industry a place in the production of nuclear fuel.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials climbed 30.97 to 855.44, moving within hailing distance of its 1975 closing high of 858.73 on May 14.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index advanced 2.09 to 92.61, and the New York Stock Exchange composite index was up 1.20 to 49.39.

Advances overpowered declines 1,234 to 55 among the 2,027 issues changing hands on the NYSE.

Big Board volume picked up speed, averaging 19.88 million shares a day compared with 18.46 million the week before.

The strong showing came despite some shock effects early in the week from Du Pont's forecast that its second-quarter earnings would be sharply lower than they were in the comparable period last year.

As of midday Wednesday, the Dow showed a negative reading for the week before it began to pick up some forward momentum.

When it did, brokers found several reasons — perhaps the most intriguing of which was the word from the White House that the Ford administration was considering proposing a bill to put future nuclear fuel production facilities in the hands of the private sector.

The government would reportedly retain control of three existing facilities for enriching uranium, if the plan were enacted.

By Friday morning, there were at least two other factors working for the market — the government's report that the rise of consumer prices slowed in May, and a Conference Board group's report suggesting that a marked economic recovery was in prospect for the next 18 months.

In all, 305 Big Board stocks hit new 1975 highs, against only 11 new lows.

Prominent on the new-high list were electric utilities. Brokers cited several reasons for the strength in the group, but a number noted that it seemed to benefit particularly from the idea of the stimulus to nuclear power generation that private enrichment of uranium would most likely represent.

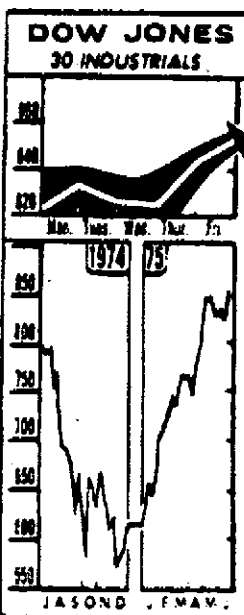

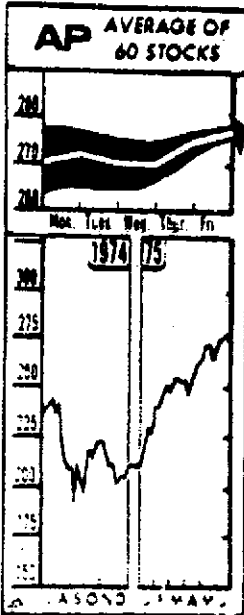

Southern Co., the Big Board volume leader, rose 3/8 to 13 3/4; Duke Power 1 3/4 to 16 1/2; Florida Power & Light 2 1/4 to 25 3/4; American Electric Power 3/4 to 20 1/2; and Virginia Electric & Power 1 1/4 to 13 1/2.

Du Pont shares gained 4 to 12 3/4, recovering from a sharp but temporary setback on the company's earnings forecast early in the week.

A.E. Staley Manufacturing, which called off a planned 700,000-share offering, was up 4 1/2 to 42.

The American Stock Exchange's market-value index showed a 1.35 gain at 91.08.

The Associated Press 60-stock average rose 7.0 to 278.5.

STOCKS UP: The stock market, as measured by the indicators, rose this past week. The Dow Jones average closed at 855.44, Friday, up 30.97 from the prior week. The Associated Press average rose to 278.5, up 7.0 from last week. Brokers credited the rise to more signs of a strengthening of the economy and a slowing of inflation. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

INVESTORS' GUIDE

You Can't Spread $1,000 Very Far

By SAM SHULSKY
Q. I am a 23-year-old who wants to invest $1,000 in both short- and long-term growth. I'm relatively uninformed about the market and would appreciate whatever information you can send me. I've heard of options and bonds, also.

A. I'm sure you realize that you can't spread $1,000 among too many different issues — unless, of course, you decide to speculate by buying calls on stocks.

For example: On the day your letter arrived A.T. & T. was selling for 48 1/2. The purchase of 100 shares would cost around $5,000.

But if you believed Telephone would go above 50 any time before July 31, you could have bought a call on 100 shares for around $150. If Telephone climbed to 55 you would have gained $500 (less your original expenditure of $150). If Telephone didn't cross the 50 mark you would lose your $150.

That would be one way of spreading your $1,000 among six different stocks for a "play" of several weeks. It could show you a whopping profit or wipe you out.

If you would put the $1,000 into a sound growth stock to be held long-term — perhaps years. When you get more money you would add more growth stocks.

Bonds make no sense for you.

NOT INSURANCE EXPERT

Q. I find that while about 31 million persons in the U.S. own stocks and bonds, there are 145 million who own life insurance. That's a ratio of nearly 5 to 1 in favor of life insurance. Why don't you devote more space to life insurance as an investment?

A. Because I am not an expert on life insurance and because I place so much emphasis on the need for life insurance for protection — not necessarily investment — that I want it "fitted" personally, in very much the same way a tailor fits a suit.

The preponderance of policy holders over securities investors is not only logical but necessary. I have often said that life insurance is an absolute "must" for protection and comes ahead of any other form of "investment."

Life insurance is the only method I know by which a young family man, for example, can create protection for his wife and children immediately with the payment of the first premium.

I have talked often of life policies, annuities, term insurance. But it would be foolhardy for me to "prescribe" life insurance without knowing a reader personally. That is the job of the insurance agent.

POLICY OPTIONS

Q. Why do financial advisers always tell widows to put the life insurance money into securities? Why don't you tell them to study their policy options first?

A. I would assume that any life insurance company worth its salt would take time to advise the widow of what income options are available before they turn over the check.

POOR STOCK ANYWAY

Q. Why did I have to turn in my shares of a radio stock at $9 when I paid $39.75 for it? I'm a senior citizen who had depended upon this stock.

A. You didn't have to tender your stock at $9. The price you paid, of course, now has absolutely no meaning. But I can't understand why you want to hold on either — assuming you need income. Your stock is speculative and pays no dividend.

Lawyers Fear Malpractice Troubles, Too

CHICAGO (AP) — The American Bar Association has named a five-member committee to find a solution to rising malpractice insurance rates for lawyers.

"We aren't in a crisis situation like the doctors are, but lawyers are feeling increasing pressures," said ABA President James D. Fellers, who announced the appointments Friday. He said rising costs left unchecked could interfere with availability of legal services.

Berries At Peak; Bids Up

With the strawberry harvest at peak stage, strong demand pushed prices up for the third day in a row at the Harbor fruit market Friday.

It was expected that the harvest will begin a decline next week.

Total receipts at the market so far this year were 106,964 16-qt. crate equivalents, ahead of the 104,500 crates that had been counted through the same date last year.

Mike Pfeuffer, federal-state market news service reporter, added that all strawberry shipments out of the area — from the market and farm packing

The market was to be open again today, for another test of Saturday marketing possibilities.

Sales Friday saw the bids up about 25 cents above Thursday for good quality and size.

Sixteen-qt. crates yesterday moved at $8.25-$9.25 for medium to large berries, mostly $8.75-$9, with an occasional best up to $9.30-$9.55. The ripe, small or fair quality lots brought $7-$8.

Eight-qt. flats, medium to large, were $4.50-$5, mostly $4.75-$5.

Receipts yesterday included 11,526 crates and 1,036 flats, for 12,562 crate equivalents.

Seventeen day buyers were present and 168 grower loads were reported.

U-M Feels Malpractice Rate Pinch

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Medical malpractice insurance premiums at the University of Michigan will be 10 times as expensive in 1975-76 as in 1971-72, a university official said Friday.

Wilbur K. Pierpont, vice president and chief financial officer, said U-M paid $237,000 for malpractice insurance five years ago. The new premium will be $2.5 million, Pierpont told the university regents.

Malpractice insurance is now between 4 and 5 per cent of the medical budget at the university, compared with 1 per cent four years ago, he said.

A recent survey of other hospitals at Big Ten schools indicated the U-M medical malpractice premiums are comparable, Pierpont added.

Niles Woman's Suit Seeks Sewer Removal, $141,500

A Niles woman has filed suit in Berrien circuit court against the City of Niles, seeking permanent injunctions against city use of certain sewer lines and $141,500 damages.

The plaintiff, Doris A. Meitzler, of 165 Silverbrook, claims the city illegally trespassed on her property in 1947 when it installed a sanitary sewer line across her property against her wishes. The suit also claims city storm sewers empty into Silverbrook Creek adjacent to her property, causing erosion to her property and home foundation.

The suit claims her property has been torn up for installation and repair of the sewer line, that further damage will be caused, and employees of the city still trespass on her land.

The injunctions which the suit seeks would prohibit the city from going onto her property, stop the city "from utilizing the sanitary sewer line," and removal of the line at the expense of the city. The $141,500 is for alleged damages she has sustained.

Two Bodies Found In Lifeboat

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The dehydrated bodies of what officials believe are two men have been discovered in a lifeboat adrift in the Gulf of Mexico.

"It appears they had been out there for ages," said U.S. Customs official Henry Conrad. "There was nothing left of them but a bag of bones."

Police said the lifeboat was found Friday by a shrimp boat about 80 miles northwest of Mexico's Yucatan Peninsula. The boat, bearing the name "Thislaine," was towed ashore. Aboard the boat, police found French coins and two watches. One of the day-date watches had stopped on the 12th of the month and the other on the 13th, but Conrad said officers did not know in which month the watches had stopped.

financially interested directly or indirectly in the sale to the City of land, materials, supplies or SERVICES (other than official services). Any member of the City Council, or other officer of the City, offending against the provisions of this section, shall, upon conviction thereof be deemed guilty of misconduct in office. The prohibitions of this section shall not apply if the City Council shall declare on its records by a unanimous vote of the members thereof, other than the member so interested, that the best interests of the City are served in spite of a personal interest, direct or indirect."

"Section 5.14 Every City officer shall become vacant upon the happening of any of the following events before the expiration of the term of office: (Paragraph) D. If the officer shall be guilty of any act constituting misconduct in office under the provisions of the charter."

Gene Story has never received the unanimous consent of the council to vote on his wife's salary. It has never been mentioned in the city records.

For the second part of the accusation that Mr. Story voted, "inadvertently" for other measures involving himself or his wife, I offer the following data taken directly from the minutes of council meetings.

On April 23, 1973, the Council moved to send Gene Story and another councilman to a regional meeting to be held in South Haven. The City to pay mileage and expenses. Story voted "yes".

On May 14, 1973, the council voted to send the City Clerk to Harbor Springs and pay mileage and expenses. Story voted "yes".

On Dec. 9, 1974, the council voted to send the City Clerk to a meeting in Benton Harbor, mileage and expenses to be paid by the City. Story voted "yes".

At this same Dec. 9 meeting Story abstained from voting on a Christmas bonus for city employees. Why? The offices of Clerk, Treasurer and Assessor were changed by referendum from appointive to elective offices. These three positions are not eligible to collect a Christmas bonus since they are no longer "employees" of the city. It leads me to believe that the whole council has been approving an illegal bonus for several years. At the least the council has been paying this bonus, unaware, to the three elected officers.

As recently as Jan. 28, 1975, the City Council voted to send Gene Story to a Municipal League meeting in Lansing, the City to pay mileage and expenses. Story voted "yes".

Only one other member of the City Council has ever "inadvertently" voted for himself and that only once. Apparently Mr. Story has not even read the provisions of the charter he has taken an oath to uphold.

My original intention in searching through the city records was to track down insurance money received after City Hall burned down and to find out what was happening to revenue sharing funds. Some of the other things that came to light will be shared with the Hartford Citizens in future letters of this sort. Verrrry interesting!

Now They Have A Canine Pill

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you think it would be nice for your dog to have a litter of pups later, but not now, there's an alternative to keeping her on a short leash.

A canine birth-control pill has joined surgical contraception — spaying or castration — as a means of keeping the dog population under control. The dog can become a mother if taken off the pill.

The real triumph of the mission is the spirit of co-operation that has risen above language and technological differences. The five crew members have worked together for the past three years. The men have slaved four hours a day learning each other's language. . . . Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR ALAN ALDA

When did you first want to be a writer?—T.S., Ventura, Calif. (Editor's note: Alda developed the written concept of the TV show "We'll Get By.")

● When I was eight, I wanted to write books like those I was reading—books like "Top Horse at Crescent Ranch"! My dad and my teachers encouraged me. In fact, at school, I used to get out of book reports by writing little plays and things. I think it was good because it developed my writing ability and gave me a chance to get a feedback on it. For example, I would write the school Thanksgiving play. In exchange for that, I wouldn't have to do some of the boring work I would otherwise have had to do. I found it much easier to write a 60-page play than a 25-page term paper. I got higher marks, too, because instead of writing a paper on some historical subject, I put all the facts in play form.

FOR ETHEL MERMAN

Out of your long career, what moment do you cherish the most?—P.L., Ashbury Park, N.J.

● It's got to be when the final curtain came down the opening night of "I Got Rhythm," October 13, 1930. The Broadway musical starred Ginger Rogers, and I made my stage debut in a featured role. I don't mean to boast, but I brought the house down when I sang. Until I stepped onstage that night, then my name didn't mean a thing. But when I left it after the show, my career had begun.

FOR SEN. WILLIAM PROXMIRE (D-Wis.)

For 20 years, the military-industrial complex has run the U.S. to suit itself. Can Congress change that?—Robert Barney, San Antonio, Texas

● I agree that the military has too much relative power. But my main objection is that it is soft and wasteful. What we need is a lean, tough, first-rate fighting force. But the military would rather keep its servants, commissary privileges and the overruns on the fancy gold-plated weapons. We could have a much stronger military for the same money, or as much military strength at far less cost.

FOR MEL BROOKS, actor and producer

Why didn't you appear in your movie "Young Frankenstein," as you did in others such as "Blazing Saddles"?—John Keepers, Pomona, Calif.

● There was only one part that I was right for in "Young Frankenstein" and that was Igor. Then, along came Marty Feldman and he mesmerized me with those eyes. Let's face it, he was born to play Igor. But thank you for the inquiry.

FOR VALERINE PERRINE, star of "Lenny"

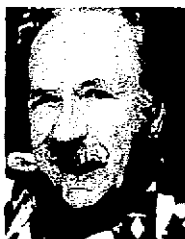

How do you like people to pronounce your name?—David Bass, Howell, N.J.

● Per-RINE—like in "wine."

FOR KAY ISELIN GILMAN, sportswriter and author

Does Joe Namath have the most natural star presence of any person you have interviewed?—J.B., Amherst, N.Y.

● No. Evel Knievel has the most natural star presence of any person I've interviewed. He also spouts the best copy.

FOR JACK ALBERTSON, star of "Chico and the Man"

As a garage owner on your show, how much do you know about cars?—S.G., Texarkana, Texas

● One day my daughter and I were driving to the NBC studios and got a flat across from the Hollywood Bowl. I pulled off on the sidewalk and headed for the nearest phone. I told NBC to pick us up. While I was away, another driver—seeing my daughter stranded—offered to help. At that point, I came back. The man recognized me and said with great disbelief: "You have a garage, and you can't fix a flat?"

FOR HAROLD "RED" GRANGE, all-time football great

How do you think you would do in present-day football?—T. J. McInerney, New Hyde Park, N.Y.

● I think I would fare okay. I weighed about 190 and was slightly over six feet. My time in the 100 was 9.7 seconds. I played both defense and offense. I liked to play, and I was not prone to injuries.

FOR BURT REYNOLDS

I enjoyed your movie "The Longest Yard." Had you ever played football before, and did you do your own scenes in the movie?—Mrs. Al Kuzio, Jr., Whitesboro, N.Y.

● I was an All-State and All-Southern halfback for Florida State University and was headed for a pro football career until a near-fatal automobile accident ended my athletic dreams. Yes, I did all of my own football scenes in "The Longest Yard."

FOR THE ASK THEM YOURSELF EDITOR

Was that a real romance between Liberace and Julie Budd?—B.B., Greensburg, Pa.

● About five years ago, when she was 16, singer Julie Budd was Liberace's costar in Las Vegas. She was depressed because she had no escort for Elvis Presley's opening at the International Hotel. Herb Bernstein, her manager, couldn't accompany her, but came up with this solution instead: "Liberace is going, and I'll ask him if he'll take you." She readily agreed: "Of course, she's like my kid sister." The miserable teenager got a new lease on life at the thought of seeing her idol's first night. Off went Liberace and Julie, arm-in-arm. A few months later, a scandal magazine came out with a special report of the "big romance" between them. Liberace was highly amused at the incident, but Julie was mortified. "M'gosh," she said, "I still call him Mister Liberace."

A Look Behind

• What's in It for Us

• What's in It for Russia

• What's in It for Man's Future in Space

It was early summer, 1969. Astronaut Frank Borman, his wife and sons were winding up a tour of Russia. During the long flight back to Moscow, Borman turned to his hosts. Soviet cosmonaut Ghermain Titov and Dr. Boris Petrov, chairman of the USSR Academy of Sciences Committee on Manned Space Flight, and made a momentous proposal: that the U.S. and the USSR fly a manned mission together.

In a way, Borman's trip through Russia (he was the first U.S. astronaut ever so honored) marked the end of the first decade of heated space competition. The Russians, after vowing to beat us to the moon, now knew they had lost, after the repeated test failures of their giant moon rocket. What they tended ASTP—for Apollo-Soyuz Test Project—was approved.

The flight has much in it for both nations. It enables NASA to fly another Apollo mission at minimal expense—since the Saturn rocket and Apollo spacecraft are leftovers from the moon program—thus keeping launch teams and astronauts together for the forthcoming U.S. space shuttle in the late '70's and early '80's. The total cost to the U.S. is about $175,000,000—of which some $25,000,000 is for the docking module built by the U.S. that will link Soyuz and Apollo in orbit. By combining engineering ideas, a better docking adapter has been built than either the U.S. or Russia had before. The adapter makes rescue a possibility, not just a pipe dream, should astronauts of any nation get trapped in orbit on future space flights.

"From the Russians' point of view, the flight soothes their feelings after having lost the lunar race. It enables them to convince the world that they're on a par with U.S. technology—which they are not."

From the Russians' point of view, the flight soothes their feelings after having lost the lunar race. It enables them to convince the world that they're on a par with U.S. technology—which they are not. They're at least a decade behind in boosters and spacecraft. As for those who feel the U.S. is giving away technological secrets—nonsense! Apollo is 15-year-old technology. The Russians may get some computer-software tricks, but nothing they could not have purchased overtly or covertly.

did not know for sure was that the U.S. knew of the failures. The decks had already been cleared for Neil Armstrong and Buzz Aldrin of Apollo 11 to perform the first manned landing two months later. Before leaving the United States, Borman had gotten the approval of Henry Kissinger and the White House to approach the Russians. As commander of Apollo 8, Borman had led the U.S. team that daringly flew the first spacecraft to circle the moon six months ahead of schedule, when it looked as though the Russians were about to beat us.

Borman felt then, as he does now, that cooperation in space might lead to détente on earth. After the initial agreements, the joint space flight, Chris-

The real triumph of ASTP is the spirit of cooperation that has risen above language and technological differences. The five crew members—U.S. commander Tom Stafford, 44, a veteran of three previous flights; rookie Vance Brand, 44; and Deke Slayton, 51, one of the original seven Mercury astronauts—and the two-man Soviet crew—Col. Aleksei Leonov, 41, the world's first space walker in 1965; and his flight engineer, Valery Kubasov—have worked together for the past three years. The men have slaved four hours a day learning each other's language. Several times a year, the crews and scores of technicians from both nations have trained at NASA's Johnson Space Center in Houston or at Star City, 25 miles east of Moscow.

Aleksel Leonov from the Soviet Union and Tom Stafford from the United States will meet next in space—orbiting above their countries' differences and (hopefully) adding a new dimension to the concept of détente.

The ASTP agreement was negotiated during the Soyuz 11 disaster. That's when, you may remember, three cosmonauts died on reentry after 23 days aboard the Salyut space station. U.S. skepticism grew about Soviet technical ability. But the Soviets solved the hatch-seal problem that had caused the tragedy and, to prove it, flew three unmanned and three manned flights.

The actual flight plan calls for Soyuz to be launched at 8:20 a.m. on Tuesday, July 15, followed at 3:50 p.m. by Apollo. Two days later, Apollo will pull up behind Soyuz and dock. Apollo carries the linking docking module beneath it, where the lunar module used to be stored. Soyuz is the passive target and Apollo does the active engine "burns" (the U.S. spacecraft carries far more maneuvering fuel and better radar). U.S. and Soviet ground stations and control centers will be tied together around the world via the U.S. ATS-6 satellite, which will also relay hours of onboard television back to Russia and the U.S.

The spacecraft will remain docked for two days, during which time the crews will visit each other's vehicle. One crewman from each nation will always be aboard his own ship. The crews will perform five joint scientific experiments, and the Apollo crew will do 22 more alone.

The joint in-flight rules are simple: The Russians will always talk English to the Americans, the Americans will always speak Russian to the Soviets. Gauges and instruments on Apollo are labeled in both languages.

Soviet obsession with secrecy nearly torpedoed the mission a few months ago. Tom Stafford had insisted that his crew see the Soviet rocket and the Soyuz spacecraft at Tyuratam, the Russian Cape Canaveral. Since the Russians also launch ICBM's there, they refused on the grounds of military secrecy. Stafford persisted, declaring, "If we don't see it, we don't fly it." The Russians gave in, and in late April the U.S. primary and backup crews, with no cameras allowed, were taken through Tyuratam. (The Russians, by the way, have always called Tyuratam by the name of Baikonur, a small city 135 miles away. They seemed to think this would throw the U.S. off about where their spaceport actually is. In reality, via reconnaissance satellites and electronic wizardry, the U.S. has known about Tyuratam for 15 years.)

When you sit inside the tiny Soyuz spacecraft, as this reporter did recently, you get a new appreciation of the courage of Soviet pilots. It is cramped and, by U.S. standards, primitive in its controls. It works well most of the time, but the Russians have lost four men returning from orbit on two Soyuz flights. The U.S. has lost none.

All things considered, Apollo is by far the more versatile and reliable spacecraft. But it was built for the far more dangerous, complex lunar mission, where no one could help if trouble developed. U.S. astronauts consider Soyuz more or less adequate for short earth-orbital missions, but they don't exactly get excited about launching in it. Ironically, the recent failure of Soyuz 18 was the best verification of Soyuz safety. The launch booster failed to achieve orbital velocity and the Soyuz was aborted, using its escape tower. The crew landed safely 1,000 miles down range from Tyuratam and only a few hundred miles from China. Col. Anatoly Filipchenko, the ASTP backup commander who flew the Soyuz 17 rehearsal mission, told me at Star City that this was the first time the escape tower had been tested, and the Soviet cosmonauts were elated that it worked perfectly.

Sitting on a shelf in Aleksel Leonov's apartment in Star City is a half-empty bottle of vodka that all five pilots of the ASTP mission drank from, sealed, and then signed their names on the label. That was at their farewell evening together a few months ago—their last until they meet in space—and they vowed to finish the vodka after returning from the ASTP flight in late July.

There may be problems on the mission that no one can predict—but camaraderie and the desire to succeed will not be among them.

Wives in Space? What Apollo-Soyuz May Lead To...

The U.S. and the USSR are already holding preliminary talks on possible follow-up missions. The avowed goal is possible joint manned flights in which America's space shuttle would ferry Soviet or joint crews up to the Soviet Salyut space station in the early '80's. Since the U.S. has no space station planned, the idea has some attraction. America's Skylab, still in orbit, might be revisited by a joint crew. More likely would be missions to an advanced Soviet space station

Prelude to the Impossible Journey: The first logical planetary goal looks like Mars, depending on what America's two unmanned Viking spacecraft find if they make it to the red planet next July 4.

The manned mission to Mars would be longer, more dangerous and more expensive than any flight yet attempted: a two-year round-trip journey at the best current chemical-rocket speeds, traversing more than 500 million miles through space each way. So long and dangerous a flight would be likely to require a mixed crew of husband and wife astronauts, at least one of them a physician. Early thoughts call for a five or six person crew. Cost: The latest projection is so huge a figure that no single nation could afford it. The Mars mission, if ever deemed worthwhile, would have to be an international flight.

People Quiz

By John E. Gibson

What Your Hair Says About You

True or False: What a man's hair length tells you about him depends as much on your haircut as his. (See number 3)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. The length of a man's hair tells a lot about his attitude, outlook and general personality.
2. The all-important first impression a man makes on people depends to a large extent on whether he's a blond, brunet or redhead.
3. What a man's hair length tells you about him depends as much on your haircut as his.
4. Nervousness or emotional conflict causes some people to literally "tear their hair."

ANSWERS

1. True. Investigators at Utah State University divided college men into two groups: those with hair above their shoulders and those with hair below their shoulders. All were subjected to a battery of standard personality tests. Marked differences in character, outlook and general attitude were found between the two groups. The hair-above-the-shoulders students were much more interested in the opinions and ideas of others, from whom they felt they could learn, and sought to profit by the examples of the successful and to avoid the mistakes of the failures. They were inclined to adjust and adapt to conditions rather than to rock the boat. Students in the hair-below-the-shoulders group "placed significantly greater value on independence, and significantly less value on conformity and recognition. They were somewhat isolated from others and not as strongly influenced by their authority." They were also disinterested in any rewards that might threaten or compromise their independence.
2. True—according to psychological studies conducted by a team of investigators on men and women students at two Midwestern colleges. Subjects were shown colored slides of male faces of various types. Each facial type was shown first with blond hair, next with dark, then as a redhead. Findings: Blondes scored the highest ratings in terms of such valued attributes as kindness, compassion and consideration for others. The same faces when depicted with dark hair were judged superior in terms of being vigorous, tough-minded men of action. Contrary to expectations, the redheaded models impressed the subjects less favorably than the blonds or brunets.

3. True. A team of behavioral specialists at the University of Arizona made an interesting psychological experiment. A long-haired subject was introduced to a class that included long- and short-haired students. They were told that "the examiners wished to study how people can 'infer,' or estimate, patterns of behavioral traits and of abnormal behavior from very brief encounters . . . and that the subject—'Bill'—had volunteered to assist, since recently 'he spent some time in a psychiatric ward.'" "Bill" read a brief neutral statement about himself and then was allowed to depart. He was then given a short haircut, and the experiment was conducted again with classes of long- and short-haired students. Results: The short-haired students rated the long-haired "Bill" as the sickest—the most likely to be schizophrenic, anxiety-ridden, paranoid, etc. On the other hand, members of the classes with long hair judged the short-haired "Bill" the sickest.

4. True. When feeling distraught or frustrated, some people will absently pluck hair after hair from their head without realizing what they are doing. Specialists in human behavior term this penchant for hair-plucking trichotillomania. It is almost like nail-biting. Methods of breaking the habit run a gamut that includes greasing the hair so the person can't get a grip on it, offering rewards, etc. A psychological study at the University of Manitoba indicates that this hair-removing habit can be effectively coped with if the person is made acutely aware of what he is doing. This was done by instructing the subject to chart the number of hairs pulled daily for seven days, and to save them and place them in envelopes daily. Purpose: To give the subject immediate and emphatic feedback on his behavior.

do anything but paralyze people. I think there is a reason for this tendency. People see what is happening all around them and feel that they don't matter. They feel worthless and even stop looking for good things within themselves. So being cynical becomes a defense and a justification for not doing anything. It is much harder to have hopes and act to bring them about. When you are cynical you are just giving up. You might as well be dead. For our survival and progress we have to drop such barriers and expand our efforts toward change. That's the only way we will have a purpose in living." The Doctor Lets You In

New Family of Wonder Drugs

There is a new family of drugs, called prostaglandins (PG's), that is astounding scientists. PG's are normally found in body tissues in minute amounts—there are different PG variants in different tissues. The body makes them from essential unsaturated fatty acids (arachidonic acid, linolenic acid, etc.) taken in the diet. Originally, PG's were separated from human and sheep seminal fluid. More recently they have been found in a marine coral. They're also produced by chemical synthesis. PG's also have opposing roles. Some dilate the bronchial tubes—useful in treating asthma; others constrict bronchial tubes and may cause an asthmatic attack. . . . The only PG presently authorized for use in the U.S. by the FDA is one that is being used to hasten labor and also to terminate pregnancy. . . . But other PG's are being used experimentally to increase blood flow in the lungs; to lower blood pressure; to stimulate the adrenal glands to produce natural cortisone or stimulate the thyroid to increase thyroid hormones. Other PG's can inhibit secretion of acid stomach juices (useful in treating stomach ulcer). Eventually they may be used for migraine or even as contraceptive agents. Within ten years, perhaps sooner, PG's could revolutionize medical treatment.—By Erwin Di Cyan, Ph.D.

The Diet Watch

What Is
"Image Eating"?

"Image eating" is a new dieting trick that's getting popular among TV celebrities. In image eating, a doctor asks his overweight patient to imagine herself in a bikini. While she's still shuddering, he asks her to imagine eating a slimming meal: cottage cheese salad with fruit, for instance—tasty enough, yet the kind of meal that can slim her down. Then he asks her to see herself wearing a whole new wardrobe two sizes smaller than her present one. In technical terms, this is called covert conditioning: You're repelled by the "old" fat you, and you identify slim, two-sizes-smaller you with the tasty-enough meal. Many researchers say that deliberately stopping before lunch and dinner and projecting these images is ideal. You flinch from the "old" you, and you identify the "new" you with the lower-calorie meal. Gradually, you achieve a new eating pattern. Some good low-calorie lunches to practice with image eating: shrimp salad with lemon; hard-boiled eggs with paprika, on lettuce; broiled fish with parsley and lemon, green salad. —By Harriet La Barre

People and You

Do Good Looks Affect How People
Judge You?

If you're good-looking, does that mean that you are also good, kind, honest and sincere? Ask that of people and they'll probably laugh at you. "Of course not," they'll say. But strangely, what we say doesn't match what we do. Most people are susceptible to good looks. When three psychologists conducted experiments on people's reactions, they discovered a strong tendency to assume that good-looking people are good people. In the experiments, volunteers were given photographs of attractive, average and below-average men and women. They were asked to judge how kind, generous, serious, stable, interesting, sincere, sexually warm, outgoing, sociable, etc., each of the people was. In another test, they were asked to judge their friendliness, enthusiasm, social poise and trustworthiness. In all cases, people forgot about beauty being skin deep and decided that good looks probably meant good personality and good character.—By Shirley Sloan Fader

Jobmanship

What It Takes to Succeed as a Secretary

Many people become secretaries. Some are happy and successful in their work, while others who are just as intelligent are restless and dissatisfied. Why? The Johnson O'Connor Research Foundation, a nonprofit group that has tested half a million people for job aptitudes since 1922, says it's not just a matter of "making up your mind to succeed." It's also a matter of your natural abilities and your basic personality. A good secretary needs clerical ability, a natural ease in dealing with paper work, figures and symbols, as well as high finger dexterity. Without the clerical ability she/he makes mistakes, falls behind, daydreams, is just plain unhappy. Without finger dexterity, a secretary never masters the skills well enough to enjoy the work. Moreover, clerical workers and private secretaries need two different personalities. To spend hours typing, doing accounts, running machines or other solitary work, clerical workers need a "subjective" personality that makes them enjoy concentrating on the task at hand rather than working with people. A private secretary needs to enjoy dealing with people. A secretary also needs inductive reasoning talent—the ability to form a logical conclusion from scattered facts. The qualities that interfere with being a good secretary are: high creativity, a talent for thinking in three dimensions, an ability to think ahead and foresee situations, plus a strong inner drive to succeed.—By S. What a Deaf-Blind Man Can Teach Us About Emotion Deaf-blind Dick Kinney "talks" with author Lyle M. Crist, who has written a biography of Kinney entitled "Through the Rain and Rainbow" (Abingdon Press, $5.95).

"The deaf-blind want to perceive as much as you do. They don't want a cold, metallic message when emotion is involved. When you laugh, you move your body a bit, don't you? Aren't you agitated in a hearty laugh?"

—Dick Kinney (deaf and blind)

I laughed. My friend Dick Kinney had made a witty, humorous comment and I laughed.

Then I tapped him on the wrist, moved my fingers to a small machine resembling a portable typewriter, and slowly punched the keys "H-A, H-A."

I assumed there was no better way to respond. Dick Kinney is totally deaf and totally blind; the machine is the TellaTouch, a wonder aid for the deaf-blind, devised by the American Foundation for the Blind. By spelling out my laughter on the keys, I knew Dick received the impression in momentary trusts of Braille dot patterns against the tip of his forefinger, placed on the other side of the TellaTouch.

He chuckled over my "H-A, H-A" message, but in that moment his expression betrayed a lesson I had yet to learn about the full meaning of communication among all of us.

Wonderful as it is, the TellaTouch was inadequate that morning, and the lesson from the incident goes far beyond the interview. I was in Dick Kinney's home in Winnetka, Ill., gathering material for the biography of this remarkable man. Blind at age seven, becoming deaf during his sophomore year in college, he lived in a vacuum without a clear sense of purpose for nearly a decade before Helen Keller and a host of interested agencies assisted his return to studies at Mount Union College in Ohio, using specially trained student-associates to communicate classroom lectures to him.

In 1954 he became only the third deaf-blind person in history to earn a college degree. Helen Keller was the first; Robert Smithdas of St. Johns University, the second. Today Kinney is president of the Hadley Correspondence School for the Blind in Winnetka, supervising its far-ranging curriculum, handling all fund raising, overseeing public relations, leading its many personal contacts with more than 4,000 students (a scattering of them deaf-blind) over the world.

His book, "Independent Living Without Sight and Hearing," is the text for a unique course for the deaf-blind, taught now by Geraldine Lawhorn, an equally remarkable black woman on Chicago's South Side. She, too, is deaf and blind.

Reading some of Kinney's comments on communication several weeks after the interview, I found that he was cautioning those in the families of deaf-blind persons to avoid using the TellaTouch when conveying emotion. To respond to a deaf-blind person's witty comment or joke simply with a "H-A, H-A" on the machine was "inadequate." "It is cold," he had written.

Well! On my next trip to Winnetka for material for the biography, I reminded Dick of my boner—I had relied on the TellaTouch for my laughter. And he remembered. "But after all, Lyle, any machine is too mechanical for real emotion. When you say something funny, don't you want a genuinely emotional reaction?"

I tapped his wrist.

"And don't you want to see a smile and hear a good, hearty laugh?"

Another single tap.

"Why?"

"To assure me that I've really said something considered funny." This time on the TellaTouch.

"Exactly. And those are the two experiences that I can't have—not in the same manner you can."

"What's to be done then?" The mechanical message seemed so logical.

He was emphatic. "The deaf-blind want to perceive as much as you do. They don't want a cold, metallic message when emotion is involved. When you laugh, you move your body a bit, don't you? Aren't you agitated in a hearty laugh?"

My single tap on his wrist again meant "Yes."

Dick smiled. "Then agitate yourself! If you're agitated, come up to me, right next to me, agitate your arm against mine; take your arms and run them up and down my arms. Be agitated. In other words, do something that I can perceive directly, on the strength of the sensory perceptions I do have. Give me a sensory clue and I'll reach my own judgment about what's going on!"

He added, with his own brand of humor once again, "Why, if you do that, I will know that one of two things

This week, Food Editor Marilyn Hansen blends herbs into sparkling jellies to serve with grilled chicken or a cool salad supper.

Jellies You Can Make From Your Garden!

Why not make some extra-special-tasting fresh herb jellies from your own garden?

PARSLEY JELLY

- 3 cups boiling water
- 4 cups chopped parsley (2 large bunches)
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice (1 lemon)
- 1 box (1 1/4 ozs.) powdered fruit pectin
- 4 1/2 cups (2 lbs.) sugar
- Few drops green food coloring

1. Pour boiling water over parsley in bowl. Cover and let stand 15 minutes. Strain through cheesecloth or jelly bag. Measure 3 cups juice into large saucepan.
2. Add lemon juice and powdered fruit pectin. Place over high heat and stir until mixture comes to a hard boil.
3. Add all sugar immediately and stir. Blend in a few drops of green food coloring.
4. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat; skim off foam with metal spoon and pour liquid quickly into sterilized glasses. Cover at once with 1/8-inch hot paraffin.

Makes 5 1/4 cups or 6 (8 ozs.) glasses

HERB JELLY

- 2 1/2 cups boiling water
- 4 tablespoons dried herb leaves*
- 4 1/2 cups (2 lbs.) sugar
- 1/4 cup vinegar
- Few drops green food coloring
- 1/2 bottle liquid fruit pectin

1. Pour boiling water over herb leaves. Cover and let stand 15 minutes. Strain through cheesecloth or jelly bag. Measure 2 cups into a large saucepan.
2. Thoroughly mix sugar and vinegar into juice in saucepan. Place over high heat and bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Add food coloring. Stir in fruit pectin at once.
3. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly.
4. Remove from heat; skim off foam with metal spoon and pour liquid quickly into sterilized glasses. Cover at once with 1/8-inch hot paraffin.

Makes 4 1/2 cups or 5 (8 ozs.) glasses

What's Smart? It's cheaper to make your own herb jellies than to buy them. Cost, using fresh herbs from your garden: 21 cents per glass. It costs about 26 cents per glass to use dried store-bought herbs.

What a Deaf-Blind Man Can Teach Us About Emotion

has happened: Either I've said something very funny—or you have a bad case of the palsy!

And he will have learned of the reaction himself, on the strength of his own senses. That is what is most important.

This is the man who, at the age of 37, fell in love with a blind girl. "It was a case of love at first touch!" The same genuine, open emotion led to their marriage, their child. And the same genuine sense of dominion has enabled him to go on after Evelyn's death just three years after their wedding.

Today, Dick Kinney tells me that most deaf-blind persons, perhaps one in every 20,000 in our nation, are those of later years who, deprived of one sense earlier in life, lose the second after years of home, family, career. When the vacuum world of deaf-blindness overtakes them, they are too old to go to school again, they feel too set in their ways to explore new patterns of learning.

As a result, they retreat to the security of a living room chair, live out their lives in retreat. Kinney's course by correspondence—for both the deaf-blind and their families—puts them back in the mainstream again. And communication is the key element.

The TellaTouch and Braille are tremendous aids, but part of the opportunity lies with the families and friends of deaf-blind persons. We can learn too. Learn to adapt our responses to the perceptions that remain.

I've been more free in displaying emotion since that second interview with Dick Kinney. There are other lessons to be learned, but communication has always been a two-way process. All Dick Kinney wants is for the deaf-blind person to have his rightful share through the open, natural use of touch.

The reasoning applies, in fact, to all of us.

Now! With the simple method of Foot Reflexology!

'You Can Get Almost Immediate Relief from Aches and Pains All Over the Body!'

"I have brought relief to countless suffering people with this method—and have watched their joy of regained health and vitality—when all hope had seemingly been lost!"

"Let me show you how it can bring about the normal function of a specific location or organ..."

Says MILDRED CARTER, Professional Reflexologist

Dear Friend:

My name is Mildred Carter. I am not a doctor, but for over 14 years, I have been helping people receive remarkable relief from seemingly hopeless aches and pains all over the body, with a method—which you can use, too—called Foot Reflexology.

Foot Reflexology is a method for healing the whole body. If you've ever suffered from foot trouble, you know that it's the feet that make the whole body ache. By rubbing and pressing gently on certain areas of your feet, I can show you how you may get almost immediate relief in OTHER PARTS OF THE BODY!

Why? Because the feet contain Reflexes, which lead like telephone lines to all parts of the body. By pressing them, you help restore normal circulation and health to congested areas. No one can guarantee a cure, nor is it a medical substitute, but:

- I have seen it relieve crippled hands and feet, caused by painful arthritis, straighten whole bodies and bring them back to normal!
- It can stop the pain of hemorrhoids almost immediately!
- Most headaches vanish immediately with this method!
- I have seen it relieve liver and gall bladder trouble!
- I have seen it clear up stuffed sinuses almost immediately!
- I have seen it relieve back troubles, in a matter of seconds!
- I have seen it bring fast relief to stomach troubles!
- I have brought lasting relief to sufferers of varicose veins with this method. This is also true with cramps or pains in the legs!
- I have seen it relieve bladder trouble quickly, with great relief after the very first treatment—all sensation of burning or itching seems to disappear completely!
- This simple method can bring women blessed relief from many disorders which may have been troubling them for years!
- I have brought relief to men, in every case of prostate trouble I have ever treated with this method!

...And still that's just the beginning! You'll find the full details of this amazing method of healing in a new book which I have written, called HELPING YOURSELF WITH FOOT REFLEXOLOGY. I'll tell you how to get it in just a moment, but first I want to tell you more about it!

Many Healings Reported!

Foot Reflexology is a safe, natural, and inexpensive way to help restore helpful circulation to every area of your body.

Did you ever notice how quickly water freshens when good water is poured into muddy water? Foot Reflexology does the same for circulation in your body. Blood flows slowly over the years. Naturally, glands and organs become sluggish. Stimulating a new flow of blood to these "tired" places brings new life, clears glands and organs of years of accumulated waste.

Healings and relief from discomforts of all sorts are reported, by the dozen, in the pages of my book. All were obtained with the help of Foot Reflexology.

Here's What I Say in This Book:

Gall Bladder Healing "There are many cases where Reflex Massage of the liver and gall bladder has saved people from having an operation."

"DOC" MEDICH:

The Yankee Star Who Puts Baseball Second

When pitcher George "Doc" Medich of the New York Yankees goes on the road with his team, he doesn't take along playing cards. Instead, he spends the hours that he's not in the ball park poring over medical journals. Medich is a fourth-year medical student who expects to become the second major-league player in history to become a doctor. (The first was another Yankee, onetime infielder Bobby Brown, who is now a heart specialist in Fort Worth, Texas.) ... Medich was the key man on the mound for the Yankees last season, winning 19 games. This followed an outstanding rookie season with New York, when he recorded one of the best earned-run averages in the American League. ... A native of Aliquippa, Pa., Doc played both baseball and football at the University of Pittsburgh. He signed a pro baseball contract in 1970. During his first years in baseball, Medich remained in med school until June and only joined his team after that. In 1973, he began to be a full-season pitcher after arranging to spread out his medical studies. ... Medich, who is 6-5 and 235 pounds, is one of the tallest and strongest pitchers in baseball. Medical training has given him such self-discipline that he seems completely unemotional even during the tensest moments of a game. "I get fired up, all right, but I keep my feelings all inside and never let them show." ... Medich expects his baseball experience to help him in his future profession. He plans to specialize in orthopedics and will probably do a great deal of surgery on athletes who break their legs or smash their kneecaps. "I have a great deal of respect for the general practitioner, but I want to be more than that," he says. "—just like I want to be more than just a pretty good pitcher." ... The 26-year-old pitcher married the former Donna Creekmore five years ago and has a two-year-old child. He says he never intends to become a fringe player in baseball. "If I can't continue as a frontline member of a major-league team, I'll leave the sport and devote all my time to medicine," he says.

We could all use less friction.

Friction? Who needs it?
Friction leads to wear and tear.

STP Oil Treatment does something about friction by helping to protect your engine from it. Just add a can to the crankcase when the oil is changed, and the first time it's down.

That'll help the oil lubricate better than it would without STP. And a well lubricated motor is the best way to help reduce oil consumption, bearing wear and prolong engine life.

Try a can of STP Oil Treatment. See what driving's like when everything's running smoothly.

It helps your oil do a better job.

LORD SNOWDON
Royal fears

In New York recently to show his 250-picture exhibit, Princess Margaret's husband (known professionally as Anthony Armstrong-Jones) said: "Performers have stage fright; I have 'film fright.' I've been a professional photographer for 20 years, but things don't necessarily get easier because you've been doing them for a long time. For me, the terror gets worse as I get older. Only when I'm halfway through a job can I begin to relax. Lord Snowdon became interested in photography at 14, and his interest on a more serious level was revived after he flunked a university architectural course. Although he takes pride in his work, Lord Snowdon says, "It's nonsense to call photography 'art.' Photography is only a way of informing people about life. Pictures are to look at in papers and magazines, and then the newsprint should be used to wrap up fish."

LANA TURNER
Stuck on Gable

During Hollywood's "Golden Years" every woman had a crush on Clark Gable, but Lana Turner was really stuck on him. The actress who became typed as the "Sweater Girl" recalled for FAMILY WEEKLY how her film career almost ended because of a kiss: "I guess my most embarrassing moment came while I was filming a love scene with Clark. I was just a teenager and he was at the height of his career. I had this adolescent habit of chewing gum constantly, and as we were doing a kissing scene the gum I was chewing passed from my mouth into his and caught on his caps. You can't imagine the look on his face! From that point on, before the cameras started rolling, the director made sure I had removed my gum." At least she wasn't wearing braces.

How to find happiness as a clown:

Peggy Williams, the first female graduate of Ringling Brothers Clown College, says: "If you love people the way I do, you couldn't find a more satisfactory career." Peggy graduated from the University of Wisconsin as a speech-pathology major and planned to go to France to study pantomime with Marcel Marceau. She gave up those plans when she heard of the clown college, and she's satisfied with her choice: "Clowning is the only profession I could think of where I'd have total freedom to express myself. I make up my own characters and costumes. Anyway, I'm a born ham!" Peggy's special skill is making people and objects vanish (illusion, of course). "It's total fantasy," she says. "Physical jokes, like falling over backward, aren't my style. Once I broke my foot just trying to do a cartwheel."

Peggy Williams

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY By Richard Armour

ADOL-LESSONS

If you're an adolescent in Your home, or maybe two,
I sympathize and realize
What you are going through.

No vaccine cures this awesome ill
With consequences vast.
You just must wait that distant date

When it at last has passed.

While adolescents adolesce
I hope that you have got Such strength and hope with which to cope
As I, alas, have not.

Nowadays, if you're offered the world on a silver platter, don't be fool-replied, "I'm kind of sorry I stirred it."

One Sunday on our way to church, we passed a very beautiful rose in a garden. My four-year-old son exclaimed, "A pretty flower." To this I answered,
"That's called a rose." He answered a little angrily, "Yes, but her last name is flower."

AN EXCITING GIFT FOR SOMEONE SPECIAL

WORDS AND PICTURES

Words and pictures don't begin to show how beautiful, brilliant and fine these magnificent Gemfire rings. That's why we want you to wear them and judge them on their own merits — not on what we tell you. See if your friends and family can tell them from an expensive "natural" diamond worth 100 times as much. In all probability you can feel them if you touch them. Many people can tell these brilliant Gemfire simulants from the expensive real ones. Yet now you can own these beautiful rings at amazingly low prices.

LOW PRICE DOESN'T

Mean Low Quality. Gemfire's simulated diamonds are not cheap fakes. In fact, Gemfires are carefully cut and polished by skilled craftsmen in the same manner as natural diamonds. They have the same fire, luster and color as natural diamonds. They are made of heavy 18Kt-Y-HGE (heavy gold electroplate) or solid sterling silver and are completely flawless. They shine like a $1,000 diamond but cost less than $20.00.

EVEN MILLIONAIRES

Wear Simulated Diamonds. Today many wealthy people, TV and movie stars feel unsafe making public appearances wearing expensive jewelry. Often times they keep their diamonds in a safe deposit box and wear these master-crafted Gemfire simulated diamonds and impress your friends!

How to Find Your Ring Size

1. Cut a strip of paper 3 inches long and 1/4 inch wide.

3. Place the dot on the strip of paper at "A" on the ring guide. The number at the end of the strip is your ring size.
